GUNMEN EXECUTED

GUNMAN ARRESTED SCARED THREE BOYS

Lured Them to His Room and Acted Strangely—Posed as Detective and Wanted Job From the Police

Officer Crowe walked into the middle of a large crowd at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets early last evening and laid his official hand upon a man who gave his name John Hill, erstwhile of New York and Philadelphia, if his own story is to be believed.

Earlier in the evening the man entered the police station and asserted in loud and certain terms that he was a real detective and had gained his experience in many of the country's largest cities. Hill said that he wanted a job on the local police force.

The next thing heard from him was when Officer Crowe interrupted a speech he was making at the junction of Merrimack and Central streets and which had attracted a large crowd.

It was learned later that Hill took three young men up to a room he had hired in a Merrimack street block under the pretense of showing them a few boxing lessons. His actions after they arrived in the room caused the three youths to pick up their coats and make for the door.

It was not Hill's intention, however, to have his company leave in this manner and he proceeded to pull out a revolver from a bureau drawer and waved it in the faces of the three young men. The man in the building came in while Hill was pulling out his revolver and ordered Hill to put down the gun and get out. Hill put down the gun and then went at one of his callers with his fists.

When arrested he was searched but no revolver was found in his possession. Sergeant Ryan, however, later found the weapon in Hill's room. The police regard him as a bad character.

When Hill's case was called this morning in police court Supt. Welch gave the defendant a scolding willing. Hill was charged with drunkenness, and also with assault with a loaded revolver upon Alexander Mack and Stephen Lynch.

Two of the young men who Hill took to the room were in court. Mack took the witness stand and told the court his version of the affair.

The defendant admitted that he acted as the defendant were brought out. The boys had never seen the defendant before.

Hill took the witness stand and told a very plausible story to the court.

The defendant admitted that he asked the boys up to his room and also that he had a revolver in his hand during the afternoon. Hill said he came from Newport, Vt.

MURDERERS OF ROSENTHAL ELECTROCUTED TODAY

"Dago Frank", "Whitey Lewis", "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" Put to Death Early This Morning at Sing Sing Prison — Denied Their Guilt to the End

SING SING PRISON, OSSINGING, N. Y., April 13.—The four gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at the break of day this Easter Monday morning. None confessed his guilt and none mentioned the name of Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant found guilty of instigating the murder but saved by court of appeals reversal.

One of the four who died "Whitey Lewis" made the only statement. Even he did not flatly assert his innocence.

"Gentlemen," he mumbled, as they strapped him in the chair, "I did not shoot at Rosenthal. Then you said I did was perjured. For the sake of justice, gentlemen, say I did not. The witness stand."

Whitey did not finish the sentence.
The strange harness had been adjusted and the current shot his body forward in the chair. He had meant to say Spanish, a waiter and a witness at the murder trial had lied; but death intervened.

"Dago Frank" First to Die

Seidenschner was his second name to die. "Dago Frank," Frank Crofeli, came first. "Gyp the Blood" (Harry Horowitz) was third, and "Lefty Louie" (Louis Rosenberg) last. In 40 minutes but all four were despatched.

This time would have been shortened had it not been for the overcrowding of reporters. Their numbers necessitated a shifting of witnesses for each execution. There was no understanded incident throughout the procedure. All walked quietly to their doom and by their quaking knees and the sickly green pallor of their faces attested that the realization of death was upon them.

Rev. William E. Cashin, Roman Catholic chaplain of the prison, accompanied "Dago Frank" to the chair.
With "Whitey" Lewis and "Gyp the Blood" was Rabbi Joseph Goldstein of New York. Rabbi Mayer Kopelberg, long the spiritual adviser of the Rosenbergs, family spiritual adviser. Priest and rabbi alike averted their faces from the chair of death, meantime, struggling to control their choking utterances as they intoned a prayer for the dying.

"Gentlemen," said Rabbi Goldstein, as he left the death chamber, "If you ask whether the Jewish boys were guilty I will say I do not know. They did not confess to me. As for the Italian I do not believe he was at the scene of the crime. I do not think any of them should have been convicted on the testimony offered.

A light moon still hung in the sky when those who were to witness the executions gathered in front of the prison. The air was chill and a raw wind swept across the Hudson, which brought the prison at the west. Falut lights glimmered at the corridor ends of the building, but no sound came from within. The hideous noises which convicts have been said to emit when one or more of their number is to die, were spared those who waited.

Current Texted

The door of the death chamber closed and the witnesses shortly after 5 o'clock. Warden Clancy had announced that "Gyp the Blood" would die first, followed by "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitey Lewis," but as it transpired, the man who first came through the little iron door at the right was "Dago Frank." He had shown signs of collapse and it was deemed expedient to shield him from the ordeal of waiting.

State Electrician Davis carefully tested the electric current by sending it through a series of incandescent lights that glowed brilliantly on a board which lay across the stout arms of the electric chair.

Died With Prayers on Lips

"Two of these men have told me that they will make a statement," announced Warden Clancy, "and under no circumstances must anyone ask them any questions." The head and leg sponges were then wet and fleed Keeper McInerney, acting on a signal from the warden, went to the death cell. There he found Crofeli in prayer with Fr. Cashin. The condemned man clutched a crucifix in each hand as he was led into the presence of death. He had to be supported by two keepers. In the death cells could be heard the murmur of the other prisoners in their applications. The warden and attendants stepped back from the rubber mat.

"Oh God, I meet my God," gasped
the Italian. The state electrician turned off the switch.

First Man Died Easiest

The first contact was gradually reduced and then a second shock was given. The prison physicians, Dr.
Farr and Dr. Merseano with several other witnessing doctors applied the stethoscope and made other tests for life.

"I pronounce this man dead," said
Dr. Farr in a low voice. There was 45 o'clock. The group of witnesses left the death chamber and the body of "Dago Frank" was taken to the autopsy.

The physicians said the Italian had made little resistance to the current, which had registered 1919 volts. The fact he died the easiest. He had intended making a statement but his mental processes had failed him. A new lot of witnesses filed in.

"Whitey Lewis" Second to Die

Through the little door presently came "Whitey Lewis." He was garbed in black, as "Dago Frank" had been.
The statement he never finished was on his lips when he entered. A current of 1220 volts took his life after two contacts.

The switch was first closed at 5:17-36 and he was pronounced dead at 5:52.

"Gyp the Blood" Had Prayerbook

Again the chamber was emptied and again filed with witnesses. At 5:56
"Gyp the Blood" was brought in. He had a Jewish prayerbook in his left hand and Rabbi Goldstein walked by his side.

"Listen, Israel, there is only one God," mumbled "Gyp" in Yiddish. His staring gaze greeted the spectators' faces but aside from the prayer he made no statement.

The preliminaries were quickly arranged, the current was applied. Two shocks were given and at 6:02 o'clock pronounced the man dead.

Three Contacts for "Lefty Louie"

"Lefty Louie," the last of the four to die, entered the chamber at 6:07.
The first contact was given at 6:08, but it was not until 6:17 that he was pronounced dead. Three contacts were necessary.

The only relatives of the young men who were in the prison at the time of the execution were "Dago Frank's" mother, sister and brothers, John and Paul, and "Whitey Lewis's" brothers, Morris and Louis.

Mrs. Crofeli was borne to her carriage in an almost collapse, an hour after the execution.

The convicts as they filed by the green barred windows shouted words of cheer to the Seidenschner brothers as they left.

Relatives Claim Bodies

To a stranger who offered to pay the cost of "Whitey's" burial, the brothers replied that they had enough money.

All the bodies of the gunmen will be claimed by relatives.

Mrs. Crofeli remained with her son until 4 o'clock, hoping to the last the governor would grant a reprieve. She believed in her boy's innocence.

Mrs. Crofeli confessed that Frank in Italian to confess but he said he had told all he knew and he was not present when Herman Rosenthal was killed.

One of the last things Frank said before he left his cell was to Father Cashin:

"Take care of my mother," he admonished.

FELL DOWN STAIRS DIED SOON AFTER

Fatal Accident to Octave Gendreau at Home of Daughter on Third St. — Died at St. John's Hospital Soon After

Octave Gendreau, aged 64 years, of 16 West Third street, died this morning at about 6:30 o'clock at St. John's hospital from a fractured skull sustained last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. Lesage, 16 West Third street by falling down a flight of stairs.

Mrs. Gendreau was talking with his daughter and other members of the family in the sitting room of her home last evening and suddenly got up and stated that he would take a little walk and return in a few minutes. A few seconds after he left the room, his daughter heard a noise and hastened to the front stairs where he was lying apparently in an unconscious condition. With the help of some of the neighbors the man was brought up stairs and placed in a bedroom and
Dr. Lathrop was summoned.

The doctor gave him medical treatment and left the house, stating that he would return later. At about 7 o'clock this morning it was found that the man was suffering from serious injuries, and the ambulance was sent for to take him to St. John's hospital where he died about an hour later.

Medical Examiner Meigs viewed the body this forenoon and stated that death was due to a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Gendreau was an operative in the Massachusetts mills and lived with his daughter at 16 West Third street.
He is survived by two daughters, Milesage and Mrs. B. McNulty.

CARRIAGE TIPPED OVER

Four Persons Had Narrow Escape in Runaway at Brighton—Driver Bruised and Shaken

BOSTON, April 12.—After guiding a runaway horse for some distance through the streets of Brighton yesterday Arthur L. Stevens of 6 Harvard place, Brighton, with his family, was thrown out on the car tracks at the junction of Washington and Tremont streets when the carriage tipped over. Mr. Stevens was severely injured.

The carriage was badly damaged, but Mrs. Stevens, a daughter, Dorothy, and two sons escaped without injury. Mr. Stevens hit the horse and carriage yesterday afternoon, from H. A. Furbush, a Brighton livery stable proprietor, and took his family for a ride. On Humwell Hill the horse was frightened by a passing automobile and broke into a wild run. In the carriage beside Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were their daughter Dorothy, 19 years old, and two sons, Lawrence, 17, and George A., 15 years.

The frightened horse dashed down the hill, with the carriage furniture and swaying behind, but Mr. Stevens managed to keep the animal on a fairly straight course and avoided other vehicles. As the ill-natured Washington and Tremont streets, Brighton horse was practically under control, but in turning out for another carriage, the wheels caught in the car tracks and the carriage was overturned.

The occupants were thrown to the ground, but all escaped injury with the exception of Mr. Stevens, who received a severe scalp wound, a wound under the right eye, lacerations of the nose and an injury to the right knee. He was treated by Dr. Rich and taken home in an automobile.

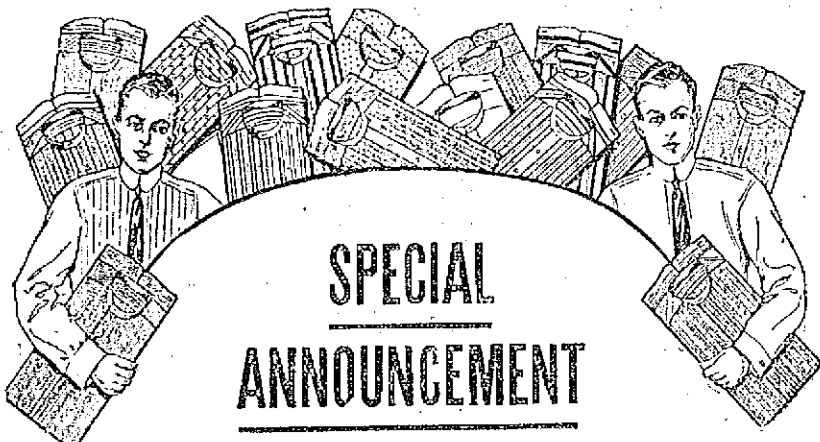

The horse was uninjured and was taken back to the livery stable.

BUNTINGS ARE JUBILANT

EVERYTHING PROGRESSING IN FINE STYLE FOR THE CLUBS BIG ATHLETIC MEET

The most encouraging reports heard thus far were returned by the various members of the athletic committee of the Bunting club at their weekly meeting held Saturday afternoon in preparation for the big athletic carnival to be held Memorial day afternoon. More members responded at Saturday's roll call than at any previous session.

There were several subcommittees appointed at the last meeting and their work during the week was formally reported to the main body of the committee. In every instance, these reports were accepted with a vote of thanks for the energy and time spent by the respective members.

Messrs. Humphries and Dickson returned from a visit to the New England headquarters of the A. A. U. and told what they had found relative to the Bunting club joining the amateur organization. It was put to a vote and unanimously carried to enter an application for membership in the A. A. U. Full particulars were given by the subcommittee.

The marathon run from Lawrence to Lowell was discussed at length, and it was voted to start the race at the Lawrence Y. M. C. A. building. The course will take the runners along the car tracks of the Lowell-Lawrence line and will terminate on the track of the club. It was decided to start the race at 1 o'clock.

The cup committee, composed of Messrs. Wilde, Dickson and Walker, met with success in their search for the best prizes available for the long distance winners over the long grind. Full power was voted this committee in procuring cups for the three first men to finish in this event.

William Dickson and Eden C. Walker were placed upon a committee to interview the winner of the B. A. A. marathon classic on Patriots day, and it was also voted that the secretary, George Brinsley, be empowered to communicate with the first six men who finished in Saturday's cathedral 10-mile run with a view of getting in these men's entries for the Bunting race.

The Sun's sporting representative, Cecil P. Dodge, was present at the meeting, and was accorded a vote of thanks for his help in explaining the intricacies of the A. A. U. rulings in the matter of amateur competition. The meeting adjourned until next Saturday afternoon.

MAN SHOT BY STRANGER

ANTONIO MESSINA ATTACKED ON SUMNER STREET, BOSTON—THREE OF SHOTS TOOK EFFECT

BOSTON, April 12.—Antonio Messina, 39, was attacked last night shortly after 8 o'clock by one of three men whom he met on Sumner street in Boston. The man opened fire on him, firing four shots from a .42 caliber revolver, three of which took effect. Messina was removed to the East Boston relief hospital, where the bullets were extricated and unless complications set in he will recover.

According to the story Messina told the police, he was walking down Sumner street, when three men came along toward him, but he paid no particular attention to them, and when but a few feet away one of the three, whom Messina states he knows by sight, and whose first name is Tony, pulled the gun and opened fire on him.

The first shot struck him in the left leg between the knee and the thigh, the second went through his right hand, dropping him to the sidewalk, and while lying there a fourth shot was fired, which passed over his head as he fell to the sidewalk.

Messina, who lives at 59 Charter street, North End, denied to the police that he had ever had trouble with the man whom he says he knew but did not know his last name. The latter statement being discounted by the police, who scout the idea of a man being shot three times by a stranger whom the victim of the shooting declares he does not know. They believe that the affair is the outcome of a previous feud.

EASTER AT BILLERICA

EASTER FESTIVAL OBSERVED IN VARIOUS CHURCHES WITH VERY ELABORATE CEREMONIES

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed in all the churches of Billerica yesterday with appropriate sermons and special musical programs. All the services were well attended and the beautiful decorations which adorned the churches added to the splendor of the observance.

The Easter festival was celebrated at St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, with the usual services and music with large congregations at all the masses. The church was elaborately decorated with flowers and plants, the Easter lily predominating in the floral display. Masses were celebrated at 8 and 10 o'clock with Rev. David J. Murphy officiating. The choir was directed by Mr. Charles F. O'Connell and Miss Edna Hoar was organist. The sermon was a very forcible presentation of the truths of the Christian faith as proving the divinity of Christ and the resurrection of the body.

church Rev. Charles H. Williams delivered a sermon on the subject, "The God of the Living," at the morning service. The pulpit was profusely decorated with Easter lilies and other flowers. Music was furnished by the church choir under the direction of Miss Minnie Childers. In the evening a concert was given by the children of the Sunday school.

At St. Anne's mission the feast was observed in the usual manner, with special music by a vested choir and a forceful sermon by Rev. Samuel Jobe, the pastor.

The services at the First Baptist church at Billerica Centre were also appropriate to Easter. At the morning service at 10:45 o'clock a special musical program was furnished by the choir, recitations were given by the young people, and the pastor gave a short address. An evening service was held at 7 o'clock.

Easter Sunday was observed at the Congregational church at Billerica Centre yesterday with an elaborate program. An early morning service for prayer and praise was held at 6:30 o'clock. The regular morning service was held at 10:45 o'clock with an Easter sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. Harold Dale, and in the evening he took for his subject, "What Easter Means to Me." The church was beautifully decorated and music was furnished by a mixed quartet.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon the North Billerica fire department was called out to extinguish a brush fire on land near the Fairview estate, about a mile from the North village. The blaze was burning furiously when the firemen arrived but was put out before any damage was done.

Another brush fire, which started late yesterday afternoon on land on Call street, gave the fire department about an hour's battle. When the alarm was sounded the blaze was spreading rapidly but the members of the fire department succeeded in checking its progress and no damage was done.

Highway Surveyor Edgar F. Twombly has appointed Christopher Walker street sweeper at North Billerica. Mr. Walker will take up his duties in a short time.

In Time the Tropics Will Contribute Their Part to Sustenance and Development of Race

WASHINGTON, April 12.—"When we see Naples, in the 17th century, as helpless as a new-born babe in the grip of a plague during which 380,000 souls perished in six months; when we see Constantinople, in 1812, with 144,000 deaths; when we see London, in the days of the great plague, with 70,000 of its population carried off; when we go back to China and behold a few short years in the 14th century with a 'black death' mortality record of 13 million souls, and to Europe, in the great scourge of 1347-1350, and see 25 million people dying; when we come on down the years and see the untold millions who have died from the numerous pestilences which have afflicted death upon mankind; then, and not till then, can we begin to appreciate what the patient man of the microscope has wrought in humanity's behalf," writes William Joseph Shewalter, in an article on "Redeeming the Tropics," sent to the National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C. The writer paints a glorious picture of the future when the tropics, freed of ravishing diseases, will be taking their part in the sustenance and development of the world.

"How can the mind conceive of the terrible toll epidemic diseases would take today, with our world-wide commerce, with our metropolitan and cosmopolitan cities, and with the constant commingling of the people of all lands, were it not for preventive measures?" continues Mr. Shewalter. "For hundreds of years man stood helpless and appalled in the face of the onset of great epidemics. He saw millions of his fellow-beings visited with deaths more horrible than ever torture chamber could invent, but not knowing whence the affliction came or whether it went, He surmised and guessed, and finally saw a certain relation between dirt and disease, and gradually the elimination of dirt checked the ravages of some epidemic diseases."

The writer then reviews the results of the discovery of the part taken by the mosquito in the carrying of yellow and malarial fever germs, the fleas on rats and ground squirrels in the transmission of bubonic plague, the fatality in the carrying of sleeping sickness, and more recently the body louse as the typhus agent. The ordinary house-fly has been christened the "typhoid-fly." Typhoid vaccination and the purification of the water supplies are described. Panama, Cuba, Porto Rico, Brazil, Italy, India, the Philippines and many other tropical countries have been redeemed from their various scourges.

"The fundamental principles of the fight are expressly laid down in simple terms like these: 'No mosquitoes, no malaria; no yellow fever, no dengue. No fleas, no bubonic plague; no lice, no typhus; no tsetse-fly, no sleeping sickness; no ticks, no spotted fever.' Not only does sanitary science open up the tropics for man himself, but for his domestic animals as well. In the generations to come, there can be no doubt that with a sanitary science that is broad enough to reach both man and beast, the great plains of the highlands in the tropics will be converted into vast cattle ranches, where cattle can be brought to the stock cattle stage and then shipped to the temperate climates for feeding and finishing, thus adding to the world's meat supply to the extent of billions of pounds."

"The discoveries that have brought about this era of control of tropical diseases have a deeper significance than would appear upon the surface. Here, indeed, lies the hope of the world's future food supply. Meanwhile, with the restrictions imposed by disease removed, tides of immigration might set into the tropics, populating them with people who would cease to be a drain upon the food supplies of the temperate zones and become, on the contrary, contributors thereto. Tropical swamps may be drained, tropical deserts irrigated, tropical jungles tamed, and millions of acres of the richest land on earth added to the productive areas which feed and clothe the world.

"And what benefits these times must bring to the race! New blood in the tropics is needed. The suns of centuries have burned out much of the initiative, the easy methods of gaining a livelihood have taken out much of the thrift, and the lazy ways of the tropics have eliminated much of the natural love of cleanliness of the people."

The National Geographic society has taken a prominent part in these disease-destroying campaigns. The microphotographs of the deadly house-fly, which this organization scattered broadcast a few years ago, gave the first impetus to the fly-swallowing fights that have since been waged all over the world.

BOSTON, April 13.—While playing for his five-year-old brother, Jerry, on the lumber pier opposite 370 Albany street, South End, yesterday afternoon, three-year-old Sylvester DeNutte fell overboard and was drowned. They had left their home at 47 Ross street but a few minutes before to buy some candy with a few pennies given them by their father, Emil DeNutte, when Jerry returned crying bitterly and bearing the sad tidings to the parents.

The father rushed for the waterfront and Sergt. Mullen, with a squad of police, was upon the scene with grappling irons from the Dedham street station, and in boats, dragged the South bay in the vicinity. The harbor police also joined in the search but up to a late hour last night the body had not been recovered. They will renew their efforts today.

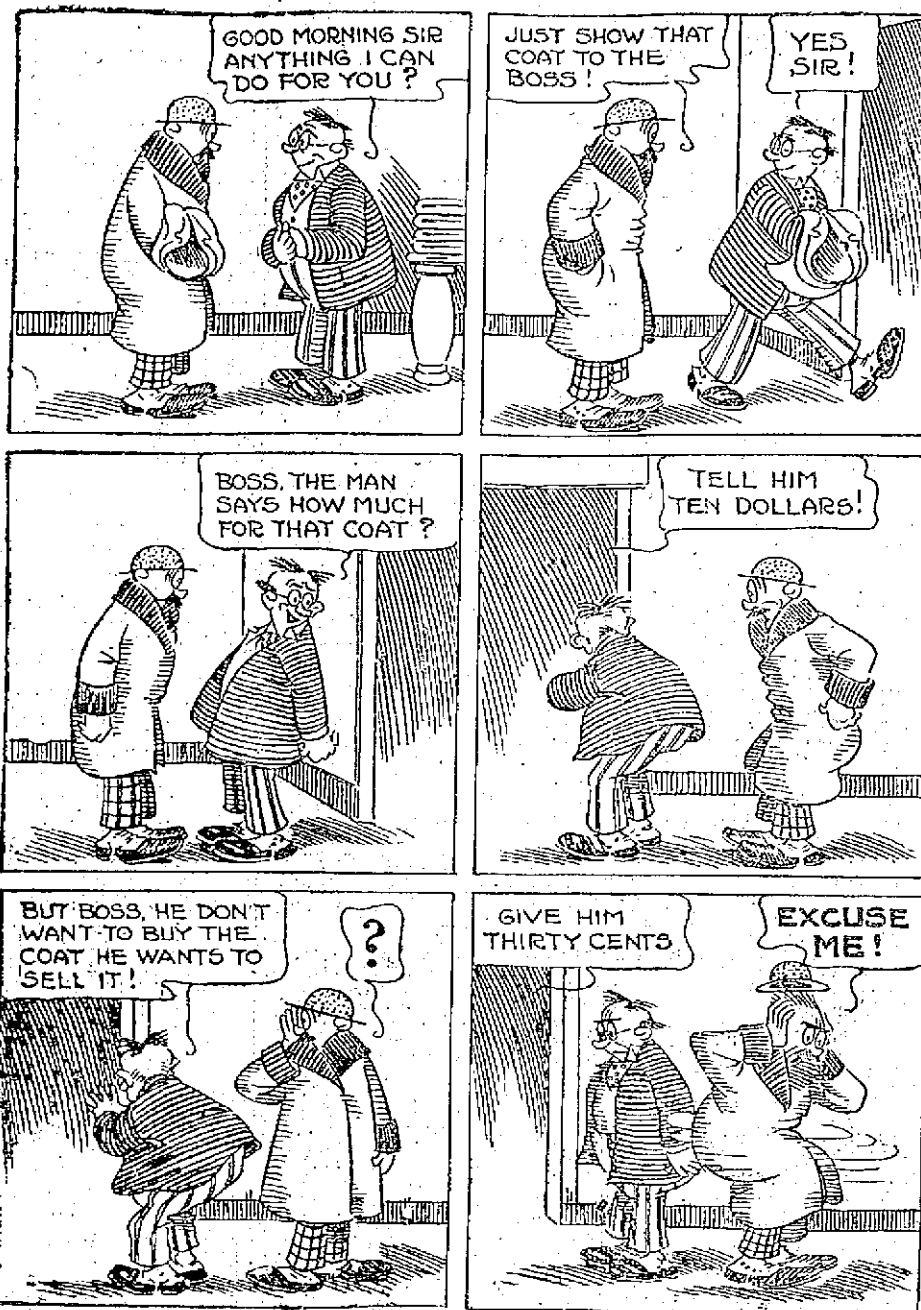

Mr. and Mrs. DeNutte have recently moved to Ross street, counting here from Manchester, N. H. They are a young couple and have a third child, Albert, scarcely a year old.

TWO BOYS DROWNED
CAKE OF ICE UPON WHICH THEY WERE PADDLING ABOUT IN THE STREAM CRUMBLED

PORTLAND, Me., April 13.—Joseph Duffy, aged 12, son of John Duffy and Raymond Hackett, aged 13, son of Daniel Hackett, both of South Portland, were drowned in Fort River late yesterday afternoon when a cake of ice upon which they were paddling about in the stream crumbled beneath them.

The Duffy and Hackett boys, and Henry Benson, a playmate of about the same age, started out to cross the river on the floating ice and when it broke all were thrown into the water. The Benson boy swam ashore, but although Duffy and Hackett could both swim they were overcome by the cold before they reached shore. Eddie Hackett, a brother of the drowned boy, tried to rescue his brother and was found unconscious beside him some distance down the river.

17,500,000 GO TO SCHOOL

Census Reports 24,000,000 of School Age But Bad Roads Kept Many From Attending

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 12.—Census reports show that in 1909 there were 24,000,000 children in the United States of school age, but that only 17,500,000 were enrolled in the schools. This would indicate that there are several million children who are deprived, for one reason or another, from obtaining an education, and there is no doubt that a large number of those are prevented from attending school on account of bad roads. Furthermore, many schools in the country districts are closed for varying periods on account of the impassable condition of the roads, and many of the schools which are not closed have a nominal percentage of attendance.

While it is true that various factors contribute to increase or decrease the attendance at schools in given sections of the country, it is worthy of comment that in the states having a high percentage of improved roads, a much larger percentage of the students enrolled regularly attend the schools than in the states having a small percentage of improved roads. In five eastern and western states which have a large mileage of improved roads, the average attendance of enrolled pupils in 1909-10 was 80 per cent; while in four southern states and one northwestern state which are noted for bad roads, the average attendance for the same year was 61 per cent—50 per cent in the good roads states as against 31 per cent in the bad road states. In 1908-9, the last named, 35 per cent of the roads have been improved, while in the latter group of states there are only 14 1/2 per cent of the roads improved.

For instance, since the improvement of the main highways in Durham county, North Carolina, the number of schoolhouses have been reduced from 85 to 42, of which 17 are graded and have two or more rooms, and employ two or more teachers.

There are at the present time about 2000 consolidated rural schools in the United States. It appears that Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana have made the greatest progress along these lines, and it is rather significant to note that in these states about one-third of the roads have been improved. According to statistics of the agricultural department, there was expended in 1909, $22,116 in Massachusetts for the conveyance of pupils to consolidated schools, but in 1908 the expenditure for this purpose amounted to $22,213. Indiana, the expenditure for this purpose in 1901 amounted to $88,000, while in 1908, $290,000 was expended. This expenditure for transportation reflects, in a general way, the extent and progress of this new educational movement. It must not be understood that this is an additional burden, as the expenditure thus made is saved in other directions—that is by the decrease in the number of schools and economy in their operation.

In Indiana, Massachusetts, Ohio and other states, the one-room, one-teacher schoolhouses, with a half dozen rooms and as many teachers. Wagons are sent out every day to gather up the children and to take them home again in the evening. All of the children within a radius of several miles are thus provided with the most modern school facilities. In some of these schools, courses in manual training, agriculture and home economics have been introduced, scientific apparatus utilized, and teachers having special qualifications and training employed.

MOTORCYCLE HITS AUTO
WORCESTER, April 12.—Frank J. Perron, a well known motorcycleist of this city, narrowly escaped death yesterday when his machine collided with an automobile driven by Archibald K. Stace of 17 Stoneham street. Perron was taken to the City hospital. He was badly bruised and cut, but his injuries were not serious.

Perron was making the turn from Chandler into Main street when he smashed into the Stace auto. Mr. Stace took him to the hospital in his machine and then reported the matter to the police. The motorcycle was demolished and the side of the auto dented.

READY FOR ASTOR AND ROOSEVELT WEDDINGS

No. 2 copyright by Paul Bros. 3 copyright Campen studio. 4 and 6 copyright Marceau. 5 copyright American Press Association.

By JOHN J. BREEN.

Plans for the Astor-Huntington marriage were practically completed at a conference held in the Huntington home in Staatsburg by Mr. Astor and Mrs. Huntington, mother of Mr. Astor's fiancée. The Rev. C. H. Duncan was selected to perform the ceremony. The decision that it is to be a church wedding will allow but 350 guests because of the size of the church, and both families were obliged to cut their lists of invitations. A special train will take the guests from New York to Staatsburg. Before the ceremony Wallace Goodrich, former organist of Trinity church in Boston, will render a musical program. He will also play the wedding march. The bride's mother was married in St. Margaret's church in 1912. Miss Alice Huntington will be her sister's only attendant. The couple plan to spend their honeymoon motoring in England and France and on Mr. Astor's yacht. Miss Huntington, who in due time will take her place in society as the wife of the head of the Astor family in this country, with all the prestige that tradition and a fortune of approximately $70,000,000 brings, is a tall, fair haired girl of twenty years, raised in the country and loving it, knowing little of society, but destined to know much more.

Fond of Outdoor Life.

From childhood Miss Huntington has had an outdoor life. The exclusiveness of country life on the large private domains of the Upper Hudson favored the most discriminating guidance of her social progress from the time she was old enough to take luncheon occasionally with her elders. Miss Huntington comes from a sturdy and athletic stock and showed it as soon as she was able to run about. Her father, who was graduated from Yale university in 1891, was tennis champion of his university, and before she was ten years old Miss Huntington began to take an interest in the tennis courts. She also, like most other girls brought up at country homes, became proficient in swimming while scarcely more than a child, and before she went away to the finishing school she was able to sail a sloop and to operate any motor craft, whether slow or swift. Since then she has on several occasions held the steering wheel of one or the other of Mr. Astor's swift hydroplanes, tearing up or down the Hudson river to the delight of those on trains or along the shore who may have been spectators. In learning to drive her own automobile she was aided by Mr. Astor, who has a thorough knowledge of motor mechanism in all its branches.

Across a few pine topped hills from Hopland House Vincent Astor, a boy two years older than Helen Huntington, was growing up, too, amid the best possible surroundings. First they romped together, then they went to dancing class together, then they played tennis and sailed and went out automobileing together. As a child Miss Huntington was very fair, her hair of fine, rippling bronze. Vincent Astor, though not really dark, seemed so by comparison, as indeed he does now. Thus they were to some extent "opposites" in appearance, although much alike in tastes and sympathies.

Last summer Miss Huntington spent a fortnight at the camp of Mrs. Robert P. Huntington, her grandmother, on Upper St. Regis lake, in the Adirondacks. Sailing, canoeing, driving a motorboat and tennis were her chief amusements there.

Kermit Roosevelt's Romance.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Willard and Mr. Roosevelt was made in a cable by Miss Willard's parents to friends in Richmond, Va. Miss Willard made her debut two years ago and is one of the most attractive of the younger social set in Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, New York and Hot Springs, Va., and it was at the last named resort that she met Miss Ethel Roosevelt, now Mrs. Richard Derby, who was the guest of the Willards on a long motor ride. Miss Willard visited the Roosevelts home at Oyster Bay, and it was while there that she became acquainted with Kermit. She was a guest at the Derby-Roosevelt wedding in New York last winter, after which Mr. Roosevelt sailed for Brazil, where he has been engaged in engineering. The romance between the Virginia girl and the son of the former president was little talked about or suspected.

Miss Willard has been presented at the court of St. James. She has been abroad since September, traveling with her mother and younger sister, who is still a schoolgirl, and only recently joined her father at his post in Madrid. Following the wedding, it is understood that the young couple will take up their residence at Sao Paulo, Brazil, where the bridegroom to be is established in business.

Kermit Roosevelt is now twenty-four years old and for a young man of his years has seen considerable of the world. He accompanied Colonel Roosevelt on his famous big game hunt in Africa, and it is said that he proved to be even a better marksman than his father. After his African hunt Kermit Roosevelt went west and shot mountain sheep. He was a student at Harvard and was graduated from that university in June, 1912. He announced at the time that he would adopt chemistry as a profession, but in the summer of 1912 he sailed for England, whence he went to Brazil to engage in the railroad business. He remained there some time and came back to the United States to attend the wedding of his sister Ethel to Dr. Richard Derby,

ULSTER'S FIGHT ATTRACTS WORLD ATTENTION

THERE is no telling where Ulster's fight against home rule for Ireland will lead. Stirring events have crowded one another in this, one of the gravest crises England has faced, from the spectacle of army officers who resigned their commissions rather than take a hand against Ulster to cheers for a speech criticizing the attitude of the king. Feeling on both sides ran high and taxed the finest efforts of the greatest diplomats in Great Britain.

The Irish Nationalists and the Liberals are committed to the home rule bill as it stands, including the provision of a separate parliament for all Ireland, but, apparently, Ulster's opposition has been so vigorous, the threats of armed resistance in case home rule is forced on Ulster obtained such complete belief, that the events which followed brought about a situation without parallel.

It has been stated that Ulster is prepared for war. Ever since the first passage of the bill two years ago the Orangemen have been organizing vol-

WOMAN WIDOWED IN GREAT POLICE SCANDAL

"YES, I will pose for my photograph," said Mrs. Herman Rosenthal, widow of the man whose murder resulted in the police scandal which rocked New York to its depths. "I'll pose for it if for no other reason than to remind the public that I have been deprived, by a conspiracy of gun men, of the love of one of the best of husbands. It may check some of the sympathy which is being wasted on my husband's murderers."

It was when she posed for the above photograph, after the release of former Police Lieutenant Becker from Sing Sing, that Mrs. Rosenthal made the foregoing statement. She was seen in her apartments, Southern Boulevard and Hunts Point avenue, in the Bronx, New York city. As her photograph indicates, she has grown stouter since the murder. She has tried to live as quietly as possible since the crime, which was the talk of the country for months, and interest in which has been revived since Becker has been granted a new trial and in the fight of the gun men to escape the electric chair.

It is easy to escape observation in New York, and few there are who recognize Mrs. Rosenthal. She says that when she goes downtown on the subway none appears to know her. She was managing, she says, to forget the crime which made her a widow, when, from the window of her apartments, she heard a newsboy calling an "extra" that Becker had been granted a new trial. Neighbors heard her weeping.

She never has attempted to conceal her resentment toward Becker. She has maintained all along that if Becker didn't have an actual hand in the murder he knows the guilty parties. Besides, she was resentful that Becker had betrayed the confidence that her husband had reposed in him when he operated the gambling house, the raid of which, it is declared, led to the tragedy.

Mrs. Rosenthal has few callers, and these only immediate relatives. The apartment in which she lives, while comfortable, is not luxurious and belies the statement that when Rosenthal was murdered he had amassed a fortune. Men who were intimates of Rosenthal say that, while at one time he was the possessor of $500,000, he lost all his money through the activities of the police of which Becker was at the head.

It will be recalled that at the time of the famous murder Mrs. Rosenthal had more than a premonition that he would never tell the story of graft to

District Attorney Whitman—the story which the bullets of the gun men sealed.

"I can recall as if it were yesterday," said Mrs. Rosenthal, "how I begged Herman not to go out on the night that he was killed, but he said he hadn't any fear; that the threats against him didn't amount to anything and that he could protect himself. On the night that he went to the Metropole I pleaded with him to stay in the house. You see it was getting near the time when he was to tell his sensational story to Mr. Whitman. When early in the morning a messenger came to the door I swooned. I knew what had happened."

Mrs. Rosenthal denied a story that she had been offered a fanciful figure to go upon the stage.

GORHAM ST. SEWER MUST BE REBUILT

Commissioner Morse Makes a Survey of the Cave-in—Grade Crossing Hearing Friday—Other City Hall News

The excavation work in connection with the slumped sewer in Gorham street was begun this morning and Commissioner Morse allows that a considerable portion of the big sewer main extending from Appleton street to Winter street will have to be relaid. Mayor Murphy accompanied Commissioner Morse on a trip about the city this morning and the trip included a survey of the Gorham street job. The mayor has gone on record as saying that he would not vote for any more loans this year and Mr. Morse thinks that it is necessary for him to rebuild any considerable portion of the big sewer main in Gorham street he will have to ask for another loan.

Paving in Edgewood

The street department has the season's work on edgestones. The work started in inland street this morning. There are about 1000 feet of edgestones to be laid there and when that job has been finished the edge stone gang will move to other streets.

The commissioner of streets and highways, Charlie Morse, is a pretty busy man. He works more hours than any member of the city government. As superintendent of streets, Charlie used to show up at the city stables at 5 o'clock in the morning and he is doing the same thing today. They do tell that some of Charlie's curtain lectures delivered at the stables, early mornings, are real gems. Mr. Morse was on hand bright and early this morning and ordered out the 11 watering carts so conspicuous in the Lowell day parade. The car sprinklers were started April 1 and the carts were put into commission this morning.

There are three distinct types of electric vacuum cleaners.

The first we call the "broomstick type."

The second we term the "regular portable."

The third is known as the "cellar system."

In the next three issues of this paper we will describe each type consecutively. Watch for it.

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., April 13.—The four gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenberg died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at the break of day this Easter Monday morning. None confessed his guilt and none mentioned the name of Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant found guilty of instigating the murder but saved by the court of appeals reversal.

One of the four who died "Whitey Lewis" made the only statement. Even he did not flatly assert his innocence.

"Gentlemen," he mumbled, as they strapped him to the chair, "I did not shoot at Rosenberg. Them who said I did was perjured. For the sake of justice, gentlemen, I say I did not. The witness Stanish—"

Whitey did not finish the sentence. The strange harness had been adjusted and the current shot his body forward in the chair. He had meant to say Stanish, a waiter and a witness at the murder trial had lied; but death intervened.

LOWELL BOY KILLED IN POLICE BATTLE

Charles Bellville of Laval Place is Dead and Arthur Giguere of Tucker St., Under Arrest at Mc-
Allister, Oklahoma

The following telegram was received by Supt. Welch this morning from a firm of undertakers in McAllister, Okla.:

McAllister, Okla., April 12, 1914.

Chief of Police, Lowell, Mass.
Charles Bellville dead. Arthur Roy captured. Attempted burglary. Gives address "13 Tucker street, Lowell." Wire instructions for body.

Undertaker Chaney.

Such is the fate of two Lowell boys who left home here only two months ago for a wandering life, with no particular destination. There were three in the party of young Lowell men who set out at that time for a trip through the west.

Charles Bellville, the young man killed in the attempted burglary, formerly lived at 5 Laval place, off Allen street. The two companions with whom he left Lowell were Homer Noel of Allen street and Arthur Giguere of 19 Tucker street.

It is thought that the prisoner reported in the telegram to have been captured at the time Bellville was killed by the police is really Arthur Giguere instead of Arthur Roy. The third boy of the party which left Lowell in search of adventure does not appear in the affair.

Both the dead man and the prisoner mentioned in the dispatch are well known to the local police. Giguere, in fact, is now under a suspended sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory at Concord for depredations committed by himself and several companions here.

The full particulars of the affair which resulted so disastrously to the young men have not yet been learned. The character of it can plainly be read though when the fact is taken into consideration that the police of the Oklahoma city took no chances and went into action at once with their revolvers with deadly effect to Bellville.

Bellville and Giguere have both been off on questionable expeditions before this last trip and their people have found themselves unable to impose any restraint upon them. They both led wild and vicious lives while in Lowell, and the sad end of the Bellville boy was long ago prophesied unless he changed his manner of living.

Supt. Welch replied to the telegram of the undertakers this morning. The father of the dead boy does not feel that he can afford to pay the expense of having his son's body brought on here for burial and the message as informed the Oklahoma concern. A brother of Giguere called at the station and after a consultation with the superintendent said that he thought that Roy was his brother without a doubt. The last place from which any word was received from the pair was St. Louis, Mo.

LIVELY DRACUT FIRE

What would have been a threatening blaze had it not been for the quick action and good work of the Dracut Centre fire department, broke out on the Richardson estate in Dracut yesterday afternoon. It was feared on account of the high wind that adjoining property would be gutted, but fortunately the members of the fire department and the many volunteers who rushed to the scene succeeded in checking the flames before any serious damage was caused.

By request of Governor Walsh all departments at the state house were closed during the King's chapel exercises.

CARRIAGE TIPPED OVER

BOSTON, April 12.—After being a runaway horse for some distance, through the streets of Brighton yesterday Arthur L. Stevens of a Harvard place, Brighton, with his family, was thrown out on the car tracks at the junction of Washington and Tremont streets when the carriage tipped over. Mr. Stevens was severely injured.

The carriage was badly damaged, but Mrs. Stevens, a daughter, Dorothy, and two sons escaped without injury. Stevens hired the horse and carriage yesterday afternoon from H. A. Parbesse, a Brighton livery stable proprietor, and took his family for a ride. He was followed by a passing automobile and broke into a wild run. In the carriage beside Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were their daughter Dorothy, 19 years old, and two sons, Lawrence, 17, and George A., 15 years.

BUNTINGS ARE JUBILANT

EVERYTHING PROGRESSING IN FINE STYLE FOR THE CLUB'S BIG ATHLETIC MEET

The most encouraging reports heard thus far were returned by the various members of the athletic committee of the Bunting club at their weekly meeting held Saturday afternoon in preparation for the big athletic carnival to be held Memorial day afternoon. More members responded at Saturday's rally than at any previous session.

There were several subcommittees appointed at the last meeting and their work during the week was formally reported to the main body of the committee. In every instance these reports were accepted with a vote of thanks for the energy and time spent by the respective members.

Messrs. Humphries and Dickson returned from a visit to the New England headquarters of the A. A. U. and told what they had found relative to the Bunting club joining the amateur organization. It was put to a vote and unanimously carried to enter an application for membership in the A. A. U. Full particulars were given by the subcommittee.

The marathon run from Lawrence to Lowell was discussed at length, and it was voted to start the race at the Lawrence Y. M. C. A. building. The course will take the runners along the car tracks of the Lowell-Lawrence line and will terminate on the track of the club. It was decided to start the race at 1 o'clock.

The cup committee, composed of Messrs. Wilde, Dickson and Walker, met with success in their search for the best prizes available for the long distance winners over the long grind. Full power was voted this committee in procuring cups for the three first men to finish in this event.

William Dickson and Edith C. Walker were placed upon a committee to interview the winner of the B. A. A. marathon classic on Patriots day, and it was also voted that the secretary, George Emmer, be empowered to communicate with the first six men who finished in Saturday's central 10 mile run with a view of getting in these men's entries for the Bunting race.

The Sun's sporting representative, Cecil P. Dodge, was present at the meeting, and was accorded a vote of thanks for his help in explaining the intricacies of the A. A. U. rules in the matter of amateur competition. The meeting adjourned until next Saturday afternoon.

MAN SHOT BY STRANGER

ANTONIO MESSINA ATTACKED ON SUMMER STREET, BOSTON—THREE OF SHOTS TOOK EFFECT

BOSTON, April 12.—Antonio Messina, 30, was attacked last night shortly after 8 o'clock by one of three men whom he met on Summer street, East Boston. The man opened fire on him, firing four shots from a 32 caliber revolver, three of which took effect. Messina was removed to the East Boston relief hospital, where the bullets were extracted and unless complications set in he will recover.

According to the story Messina told the police, he was walking down Summer street, when three men came along toward him but he paid no particular attention to them, and when but a few feet away one of the three, whom Messina states he knows by sight, and whose first name is Tony, pulled the gun and opened fire on him.

The first shot struck him in the left leg between the knee and the thigh, the second went through his right hand, dropping him to the sidewalk, and while lying there a fourth was fired, which passed over his head as he fell to the sidewalk.

Messina, who lives at 29 Charter street, North End, denied to the police that he had ever had trouble with the man, whom he says he knew but did not know his last name. The latter statement being contradicted by the police, who sent the idea of a man being shot three times by a stranger whom the victim of the shooting declares he does not know. They believe that the affair is the outcome of a previous feud.

EASTER AT BILLERICA

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed in all the churches of Billerica yesterday with appropriate sermons and special musical programs. All the services were well attended, and the beautiful decorations which adorned the churches added to the splendor of the observance.

The Easter festival was celebrated at St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, with the usual services and music with large congregations at all the masses. The church was elaborately decorated with flowers and potted plants, the Easter lily predominating. In the floral display, masses were celebrated at 8 and 10 o'clock with Rev. David J. Murphy officiating. The choir was directed by Mr. Charles Fairbrother and Miss Rita Hoar was organist. The sermon was a very forcible presentation of the truths of the resurrection as proving the divinity of Christ and the resurrection of the body.

Keep Looking Young

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young—is to feel young. To do this you must watch your liver and bowels. You need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—dimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you ninety percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for salomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio. All druggists.

church Rev. Charles H. Williams delivered a sermon on the subject, "The God of the Living," at the morning service. The pulpit was profusely decorated with Easter lilies and other flowers. Music was furnished by the church choir under the direction of Miss Minnie Clifford. In the evening a concert was given by the children of the Sunday school.

At St. Anne's mission the feast was observed in the usual manner with special music by a vested choir and a forenoon service by Rev. Samuel Jobe, the pastor.

The services at the First Baptist church at Billerica Centre were also appropriate to Easter. At the morning service at 10:45 o'clock a special musical program was furnished by the choir, recitations were given by the young people, and the pastor gave a short address. An evening service was held at 7 o'clock.

Easter Sunday was observed at the Congregational church at Billerica Centre yesterday with an elaborate program. An early morning service for prayer and praise was held at 6:30 o'clock. The regular morning service was held at 10:45 o'clock with an Easter sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. Harold Dale, and in the evening he took for his subject, "What Easter Means to Me." The church was beautifully decorated and music was furnished by a mixed quartet.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon the North Billerica fire department was called out to extinguish a brush fire on land near the Fairbank estate, about a mile from the North Billerica village. The blaze was burning furiously when the firemen arrived but

STAMPING OUT PLAGUES

In Time the Tropics Will Contribute Their Part to Sustenance and Development of Race

WASHINGTON, April 12.—When we see Naples, in the 17th century, as helpless as a new-born babe in the grip of a plague which 380,000 souls perished in six months; when we see Constantinople, in 1512, with 141,000 deaths; when we see London, in the days of the great plague, with 70,000 of its population carried off; when we go back to China and behold a few short years in the 14th century with a 'black death' mortality record of 13 million souls, and to Europe, in the great scourge of 1347-1350, and see 25 million people dying; when we come on down the years and see the untold millions who have died from the numerous pestilences which have afflicted death upon mankind; then, and not till then, can we begin to appreciate what the patient man of the microscope has wrought in humanity's behalf," writes William Joseph Showalter, in an article on "Redeeming the Tropics," sent to the National Geographical society, at Washington, D. C. The writer paints a glorious picture of the future when the tropics, freed of ravishing diseases, will be taking their part in the sustenance and development of the world.

"How can the mind conceive of the terrible toll epidemic diseases would take today, with our world-wide commerce, with our metropolitan and cosmopolitan cities, and with the constant commingling of the people of all lands, were it not for preventive measures?" continues Mr. Showalter. "For hundreds of years man stood helpless and appalled in the face of the onset of great epidemics. He saw millions of his fellow-beings visited with deaths more horrible than ever torture chamber could invent, but not knowing whence the affliction came or whither it went, he stammered and guessed, and finally saw a certain relation between dirt and disease, and gradually the elimination of dirt checked the ravages of some epidemic diseases."

The writer then reviews the results of the discovery of the part taken by the mosquito in the carrying of yellow and malarial fever germs, the fleas on rats and ground squirrels in the transmission of bubonic plague, the tsetse-fly in the carrying of sleeping sickness, and more recently the body louse as the typhus agent. The ordinary house-fly has been christened the "typhoid-fly." Typhoid vaccination and the purification of the water supplies are described. Panama, Cuba, Porto Rico, Brazil, Italy, India, the Philippines and many other tropical countries have been redeemed from their various scourges.

"The fundamental principles of the fight are expressively laid down in simple terms like these: 'No mosquitoes, no malaria; no yellow fever, no plague. No fleas, no bubonic plague; no lice, no typhus; no tsetse-fly, no sleeping sickness; no ticks, no spotted fever.' Not only does sanitary science open up the tropics for man himself, but for his domestic animals as well. In the generations to come, there can be no doubt that with a sanitary science that is broad enough to reach both man and beast, the great plains of the highlands in the tropics will be converted into vast cattle ranches, where cattle can be brought to the stock stage and then shipped to the temperate climates for feeding and finishing, thus adding to the world's meat supply to the extent of billions of pounds."

"The discoveries that have brought about this era of control of tropical diseases have a deeper significance than would appear upon the surface. Here, indeed, lies the hope of the world's future food supply. Meanwhile, with the restrictions imposed by disease removed, tides of immigration might set into the tropics, populating

them with people who would cease to be a drain upon the food supplies of the temperate zones and become, on the contrary, contributors thereof. Tropical swamps may be drained, tropical deserts irrigated, tropical jungles tamed, and millions of acres of the richest land on earth added to the productive areas which feed and clothe the world.

"And what benefits these times must bring to the race! New blood in the tropics is needed. The sons of centuries have turned out much of the initiative, the easy methods of gaining a livelihood have taken out much of the thrift, and the lazy ways of the tropics have eliminated much of the natural love of cleanliness of the people."

The National Geographic society has taken a prominent part in these disease-debating campaigns. The microphotographs of the deadly house-fly, which this organization scattered broadcast a few years ago, gave the first impetus to the fly-swalling fights that have since been waged all over the world.

FELL OVERBOARD

3 Year Old Boy Dropped Into Boston Harbor and Was Drowned

BOSTON, April 12.—While playing for his five-year-old brother, Jerry, on the lumber pier opposite 370 Albany street, South End, yesterday afternoon, three-year-old Sylvester DeNutte fell overboard and was drowned. They had left their home at 47 Rose street but a few minutes before to buy some candy with a few pennies given them by their father, Emil DeNutte, when Jerry returned crying bitterly and bearing the sad tidings to the parents.

The father rushed for the waterfront and Sergt. Mullen, with a squad of police, was soon on the scene with grappling irons from the Dedham street station, and in boats, dragged the South bay in the vicinity. The harbor police also joined in the search but up to a late hour last night the body had not been recovered. They will renew their efforts today.

Mr. and Mrs. DeNutte have recently moved to Rose street, coming here from Manchester, N. H. They are a young couple and have a third child, Albert, scarcely a year old.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

CAGE OF ICE UPON WHICH THEY WERE PADDLING ABOUT IN THE STREAM CRUMBLIED

PORTLAND, Me., April 12.—Joseph Duffy, aged 12, son of John Duffy, and Raymond Hackett, aged 13, son of Daniel Hackett, both of South Portland, were drowned in Fort river late yesterday afternoon when a cage of ice upon which they were paddling about in the stream crumbled beneath them.

The Duffy and Hackett boys, and Henry Benson, a playmate of about the same age, started out to cross the river on the floating ice and when it broke all were thrown into the water.

The Benson boy swam ashore, but although Duffy and Hackett could both swim they were overcome by the cold before they reached shore. Eddie Hackett, a brother of the drowned boy, tried to rescue his brother and was found unconscious beside him some distance down the river.

17,500,000 GO TO SCHOOL

Census Reports 24,000,000 of School Age But Bad Roads Kept Many From Attending

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 12.—Census reports show that in 1909 there were 21,000,000 children in the United States of school age, but that only 17,500,000 were enrolled in the schools. This would indicate that there are several million children who are deprived, for one reason or another, from obtaining an education, and there is no doubt that a large number of those are prevented from attending school on account of bad roads. Furthermore, many schools in the country districts are closed for varying periods on account of the impassable condition of the roads, and many of the schools which are not closed have a nominal percentage of attendance.

While it is true that various factors contribute to increase or decrease the attendance at schools in given sections of the country, it is worthy of comment that in the states having a high percentage of improved roads, a much larger percentage of the students enrolled regularly attend the schools than in the states having a low percentage of improved roads. In five eastern and western states which have a large mileage of improved roads, the average attendance of enrolled pupils in 1909-10 was 59 per cent; while in four southern states and one northwestern state which are noted for bad roads, the average attendance for the same year was 61 per cent—50 per cent in the good roads states as against 61 per cent in the bad road states. In 15 states first named, 55 per cent of the roads have been improved, while in the latter group of states there are only 12 per cent of the roads improved.

For instance, since the improvement of the main highways in Durham county, North Carolina, the number of schoolhouses have been reduced from 65 to 42, of which 17 are graded and have two or more rooms, and employ two or more teachers.

There are at the present time about 2000 consolidated rural schools in the United States. It appears that Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana have made the greatest progress along these lines, and it is rather significant to note that in these states about one-third of the roads have been improved. According to statistics of the agricultural department, there was expended in 1909, $22,116 in Massachusetts for the conveyance of pupils to consolidated schools, but in 1908 the expenditure for this purpose amounted to $22,213. Indiana, the expenditure for this purpose in 1901 amounted to $56,000, while in 1908, $294,000 was expended. This expenditure for transportation reflects, in a general way, the extent and progress of this new educational movement. It must not be understood that this is an additional burden, as the expenditure thus made is saved in other directions—that is by the decrease in the number of schools and economy in their operation.

In Indiana, Massachusetts, Ohio and other states, the one-room, one-teacher schools are being replaced by Central schoolhouses, with a half dozen rooms and as many teachers. Wagons are sent out every day to gather up the children and to take them home again in the evening. All of the children within a radius of several miles are thus provided with the most modern school facilities. In some of these schools, courses in manual training, agriculture and home economics have been introduced, scientific apparatus utilized, and teachers having special qualifications and training employed.

EASTER IN THE CHURCHES THE FESTIVAL OF EASTER

Impressive and Joyous Services Observed With Special Musical in Catholic Churches—Sermons in Catholic Churches—Decorations and Sermons at Protestant Churches

Yesterday was a day of rejoicing in the Catholic churches, for it marked the Easter festival, the most important feast on the Catholic calendar. The churches throughout the city were elaborately decorated for the occasion and special services were held, carried out by the various churches and sermons on the resurrection of Christ were delivered in all the temples. The weather was ideal and the result was that the congregations at the parish masses in the different churches were much greater than on regular Sundays. In the evening solemn vespers were sung and these services were also largely attended.

St. Patrick's
St. Patrick's church presented a very brilliant appearance yesterday with its handsome decorations, consisting of potted plants and greenery, while hundreds of lighted candles and incense burners brilliantly illuminated the altar. Easter lilies were also much in evidence. The parish mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock, the celebrant being Rev. Timothy Callahan, assisted by Rev. John J. Kerrigan as deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Curran as sub-deacon. At 7 o'clock in the evening solemn vespers were sung and again a large congregation filled the church. The musical program for both services was unusually elaborate and well rendered under the direction of Michael J. Johnson, who also presided at the organ. The soloists were Miss Alice Murphy, Mrs. James McGee, Andrew McCarthy and James J. McNabb.

Immaculate Conception
At the Immaculate Conception church the mass was sung by the choir at the 11 o'clock mass, which was a solemn service, the celebrant being Rev. John C. Duffy, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Patrick J. Piloni, O. M. I., and Rev. John O'Hanlon, O. M. I., as deacon and sub-deacon respectively. The musical program was very elaborate and was exceptionally well rendered under the direction of Joseph P. Courtney, Mrs. Hugh Walker presiding at the organ. The soloists were the pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Dwyer, O. M. I., who spoke on the gospel of the day, contrasting the brightness and hope of Easter day with the gloom and sorrow of the past week. A feature of the music at the 11 o'clock mass was the Easter carols sung by the sanctuary choir. There was no music at the 7 o'clock mass. The decorations on the altar were profuse and very handsome. Flowers including Easter lilies were much in evidence, while hundreds of small lights brilliantly ornamented the sanctuary.

St. Peter's
With unusual splendor and great impressiveness, the joyous feast of the resurrection was observed at St. Peter's church yesterday. The altar was prettily decorated with vari-colored carnations, sweet peas, and with Easter and calla lilies predominating. The principal service of the day was the parish mass, when a solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. W. George Sullivan, assisted by Rev. Charles F. Donahoe as deacon and Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan as sub-deacon, and Francis Farrell, master of ceremonies. Rev. Dr. J. J. Keeler preached the sermon and spoke briefly on the glorious and triumphant resurrection of Christ, drawing many valuable and inspiring lessons from it, and urging the faithful to follow the ideals of a Catholic life so that they, too, may rise gloriously and immortal on the last day. The church choir under the direction of Miss Caroline White, organist, sang the program as previously published, the soloists being Miss Gertrude Keeler, Miss Vera McArthur, Harry Hondu and James E. Donnelly. James Barnes sang a beautiful "Ave Maria" at the offertory. The vespers services were held at 7 o'clock and were also largely attended.

Sacred Heart
The celebrant of the parish mass at the Sacred Heart church which was at 11 o'clock was Rev. Edmund Strauss, O. M. I., of the Tewksbury novitiate, and he was assisted by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. The altar of the church was artistically decorated with Easter lilies and potted plants. The sanctuary was hung with rich green curtains, above them falling nistaria. In the sanctuary were placed large bay trees, and numerous Easter lilies, while the main altar was surrounded with greenery and flowers of the season. Large lilies were also placed on the large pillars throughout the auditorium, and when the hundreds of incense burners were turned on the spectacle was one of rare beauty. Preceding the mass processional hymns were sung as the officers of the mass and their assistants marched through the aisles of the church. At the close of the mass, too, a procession was held.

The sermon on the gospel of the day was given by the pastor, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., who spoke briefly on the great feast. He also referred to the nature of the music and said it told the wonderful story of the resurrection of Christ. The choir, composed of 49 voices, in charge of Organist John J. Kelly, assisted by the sanctuary choir, under the direction of Rev. James T. McElroy, O. M. I., rendered an elaborate program which was very fitting to the occasion. The vespers services in the evening were also very largely attended and they were a fitting close to the day of festivities.

St. Michael's
Both services at St. Michael's church yesterday were unusually elaborate. The parish mass was celebrated at 10:45 o'clock by Rev. Francis J. Mahoney, assisted by Rev. Dennis A. Murphy and John J. Shaw, respectively. Kallwood's mass, Rev. A. was admirably sung by the choir, under the direction of James A. Murphy, assisted by Miss Ella M. Kelly presiding at the organ. Rev. Dennis A. Murphy, who was the preacher and his wife sang the gospel of the day. The large attendance was an eloquent effort as are all the sermons by Fr. Murphy. The decorations about the church were handsome, especially on the main altar, which was literally covered with potted plants and flowers, numerous incense burners and candles adding brilliancy to the general effect.

St. Margaret's
The choir of St. Margaret's church in Stevens street was yesterday the scene of a large gathering, especially at the parish mass which was celebrated at 10:45 o'clock by Rev. H. C. Scardone, who also delivered the sermon. The musical program at both morning and afternoon services was elaborate and was given by a powerful choir under the direction of Katherine V. Hennessey, M. E. McCarthy, William Burns, C. Conlon and H. Driscoll. The decorations were handsome and elaborate and greatly added to the joyous feast.

St. Columba's
Rev. Chas. Buckley was the celebrant of the parish mass at St. Columba's church yesterday morning, while the sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. John A. Deegan. The decorations in the church were confined to the main altar, and were very elaborate, consisting of potted plants and flowers as well as numerous lights. Rev. Fr. Deegan officiated at the evening service, which was also largely attended.

Notre Dame de Lourdes
The decorations at Notre Dame de Lourdes church in Branch street yesterday consisted of blue, white and yellow streamers suspended from the corners to the interior of the church, caught up in the center in an attractive manner. The altar was literally covered with flowers and potted plants, Easter lilies predominating. The parish mass, which was celebrated at 10:30 o'clock, was largely attended, and the celebrant, Rev. Joseph M. O'Malley, M. I., assisted by Rev. Louis O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. John A. Deegan, O. M. I., as sub-deacon, both of the Tewksbury novitiate. The sermon, an eloquent one on the "Resurrection," was preached by Rev. J. R. A. Barette, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of H. A. Barette rendered a beautiful program, including a special Easter service presented by the junior department under the direction of Miss Jean MacTaggart. The story of the risen Christ was told in a series of effective dialogues presented by the children. In the evening there was a carol service.

There were large attendances at both the morning and evening services at the High Street Congregational church. The musical program at both services included Easter anthems, and in the morning the choir of the Sunday school assembled in the large vestry for a special Easter service presented by the junior department under the direction of Miss Jean MacTaggart. St. Anne's Church
All of the Easter Sunday services at St. Anne's church were very largely attended and at the 10:30 service seats had to be brought in from the chapel to accommodate the large number of worshippers. The altar was prettily decorated with Easter lilies and the chancel with potted palms. The music was under the direction of Charles F. Brown, organist and choirmaster of the church. The pastor, Rev. Appleton Grannis, preached on "The Transforming Power of the Resurrection." day. In the afternoon communion was observed, when 16 persons united with the church.

First Baptist
The First Baptist church was crowded at both morning and evening services yesterday. The pastor, Rev. Guy C. Lamson, missionary and field secretary of the American Baptist Publication Society of Philadelphia, in the morning, Rev. Mr. Lamson spoke on "Assurances of the Resurrection," and in the evening his subject was, "Who Did He Die?" An augmented choir and chorus gave an appropriate Easter program at music, a feature of which was the solo of Mrs. W. H. Pepin, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," from "The Messiah." The anthems were inspiringly sung.

Fifth Street Baptist
A fine musical program was presented in observance of Easter at the Fifth Street Baptist church. Special credit is due to Ernest Engle for his rendition of "Blest Are the Pure in Heart." The sermon at the morning service was by Rev. Forrester Macdonald, upon "The Mist of the Resurrection." At this service baptism was administered to four young men and three young women. The musical selections at the evening service were featured by the duet, "Cast Thy Burden," by Ernest Engle and Miss Clough, and a violin solo by Mrs. E. A. Whitman. The church was decorated with a huge screen of Junipers and Easter lilies supported before the pulpit by four uprights. The attendance was particularly large.

Grace Universalist
Large congregations attended the Easter services at Grace Universalist church. There was special music, and the pastor, Rev. C. B. Skinner, gave a well prepared sermon on the lesson of the day. The last of the sunset services was held in the early evening, the Germania orchestra assisting the choir and the organ.

FELL DOWN STAIRS DIED SOON AFTER

Fatal Accident to Octave Gendreau at Home of Daughter on Third St. — Died at St. John's Hospital Soon After

Octave Gendreau, aged 64 years, of 15 West Third street, died this morning at about 6:30 o'clock at St. John's hospital from a fractured skull sustained last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. Lesage, 16 West Third street by falling down a flight of stairs.

Mr. Gendreau was talking with his daughter and other members of the family in the sitting room of her home last evening and suddenly got up and stated that he would take a little walk and return in a few minutes. A few seconds after he left the room, his daughter heard a noise and hastened to the front stairs where he was lying apparently in an unconscious condition. With the help of some of the neighbors the man was brought up-stairs and placed in a bedroom and Dr. Lathrop was summoned.

The doctor gave him medical treatment and left the house, stating that he would return later. At about 5 o'clock this morning it was found that the man was suffering from serious injuries, and the ambulance was sent for to take him to St. John's hospital where he died about an hour later. Medical Examiner Melis viewed the body this forenoon and stated that death was due to a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Gendreau was an operative in the Massachusetts mills and lived with his daughter at 16 West Third street. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. J. Lesage, Mrs. A. Magnan, Mrs. Albertine McNulty and Mrs. C. Ryan. The body was removed to the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. Lesage, 16 West Third street.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

Little Mary Pickford, the most popular and highest salaried motion picture actress in the world, who recently returned to the screen under the direction of the Famous Players Film company, after a great stage triumph in "David Belasco's 'A Good Little Devil,'" will be presented in the Famous Players' production of "Hearts Adrift," a romance of tangled lives, at the Opera House today and tomorrow. The characterizations in "Caprice" and in "The Bishop's Carriage" have been qualified by critics as the most brilliant efforts of her phenomenally successful career, but the role which she portrays in "Hearts Adrift" gives her even wider scope for dramatic expression and character delineation. "Hearts Adrift" is a drama of the shifting sands of time and surging, changing tides of life, and an epic of the sea with deep human undercurrents.

"Hearts Adrift" was produced at the Los Angeles studio of the Famous Players, under the skilful direction of Edwin S. Porter, who is known as the father of the photo-play, having produced the first dramatic story in motion pictures. Mary Pickford directed by Edwin S. Porter in a picture produced by the Famous Players Film Co. requires no further endorsement of being a success.

"PEG O' MY HEART"

At last Lowell is to see "Peg O' My Heart" the play in which Laurette Taylor has broken all records for consecutive performances at the Cort theatre, New York. This exquisite and wholesome comedy from the pen of J. Hartley Manners will be seen here at the Opera House under the management of Oliver Morogoo. Those who have been to New York and have been fortunate enough to obtain seats to see "Peg" will be the greatest boosters of the play in every town where it is touring. "Peg O' My Heart" is the touring success for it is an exceptional play for New York. The comedy is so refreshing, so brilliant of the joy of right living and thinking and the whole done up in such an irresistible Irish wrapper that a second visit will enhance the impression of the first.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

One of the most thrilling of melodramatic sketches in "Flashlight Crag," which will be played at the Keith theatre this week, with a splendid cast this sterling piece will be presented. It offers an unusual phase of police work and shows a police sleuth, who the first time in his life, is undecided as to which course to follow, the path of love or duty. Things break right for him and he is enabled to pursue one without influencing his course in the other. "Flashlight" was the title given to a New York detective, who, uncovering judgments as to the duties of a person. Once a crook had been seen by him "Flashlight" never forgot him. This peculiar memory of his caused him to be considered invaluable at police headquarters. The particular case to which he was assigned, and which nearly brought about his undoing was that where a 17-year-old boy shot down another youngster in a saloon brawl. "Flashlight" went to the home of the young man who had caused the shooting and arrested the assassin just as he was about to leave the police. Now "Flashlight" had never seen the detective before, nor had the detective ever seen him, yet the man of unerring memory called the chap by name. That was the last straw and a complete confession was forthcoming. It appears that earlier in life "Flashlight" had had a love affair. He was on the verge of marriage when the woman deserted him and married another. She had been the chief support of an invalid sister, and her sister had died. He was given the policeman and turned to a man of means and position. This she did, but the money of her husband soon passed on; he died and she was reduced to a beggar. So, when "Flashlight" next met her she was the mother of a boy who had become a criminal. He was given the policeman and turned to a man of means and position. This she did, but the money of her husband soon passed on; he died and she was reduced to a beggar. So, when "Flashlight" next met her she was the mother of a boy who had become a criminal.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Sometime ago the management of the Colonial theatre learned that the Imperator Film company was working on a production, "Life's Temptations," that they intended to be the best they ever had put out, and an effort was at once made to book it for the very earliest showing. Friday of this last week Mr. Knopf of the Colonial was notified that the play was ready and that the Imperator Co. was anxious to see it produced at the Colonial as soon as possible so that they might see the picture shown under the best moving picture conditions and it therefore was booked for today and tomorrow.

The picture is one of wonderful sensational acting and from the first reel where a big ocean liner is wrecked until the end of the fourth, where the hero saves his own child from a burning coal mine, there is not one moment when the audience loses interest.

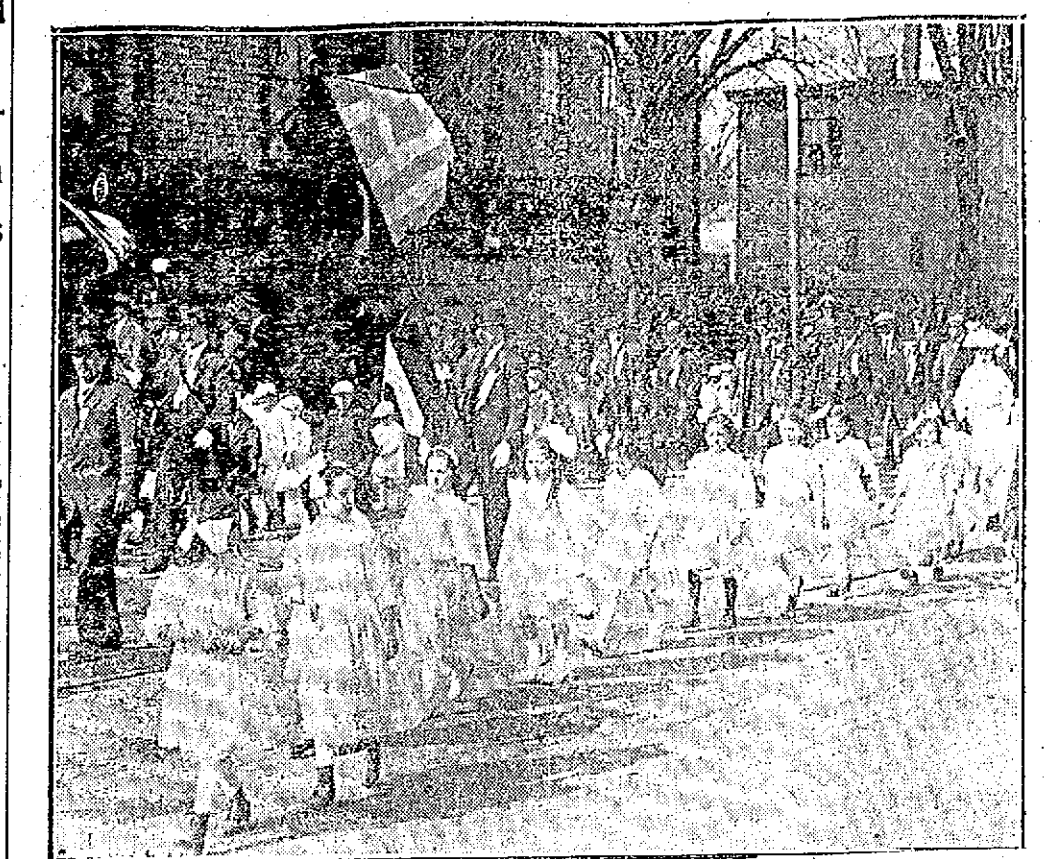

Another feature will be Lubin's "In the Gambler's Web," and no words of praise need be written of it, for everyone knows of the perfection of the works of the Lubin studio.

Other photo-plays shown will be productions of the biograph, Edison and Selig companies. Miss Margaret McDougall will continue as soloist.

THE KASINO

Cities and towns along the Merrimack valley will be well represented at the Kasino tonight, when the dancing season will be formally inaugurated. Messrs. Edward T. Cushing and Charles Bunker, the proprietors, have spared no expense in their plans for the initial party, and the great resort will present a wealth of color and scene of animation when the orchestra by the way, is to be a feature of the Kasino, as it always has been. Mr. Miner, well and favorably known as a conductor, is taking a keen interest in the Kasino's plans, and patrons are assured the best that money can produce. The pleasure of dancing comes to the Kasino, and the Kasino intends to entertain, not only with good music but with concert programs of unusual interest. The door has been placed in condition, and is now one of the smoothest surfaces in Massachusetts. Sessions are to be held every night and on Saturday afternoon.

Five thousand Greeks, including delegations from Manchester, Nashua, Lawrence, Haverhill and New Bedford, yesterday did honor to the veterans of the Holy regiment who had fought throughout the Balkan-Turkish and Greco-Bulgarian wars. They celebrated, too, the 23rd anniversary of the independence of the Hellenic nation and observed the feast of Palm Sunday. Services in the orthodox church and a parade in which the veterans were the principals featured the occasion.

The parade was the most spectacular of its kind that ever passed through the streets of Lowell. A line after line of the young and middle-aged men who had left employment, home and family to fight for the fatherland, the veterans marched along with the same precision as they had marched against the Turks at Adrianople and against the Bulgars at Killikish. But instead of being greeted by shrapnel and musketry this time they received cheering and smiles and hand clapping from wives and mothers and brothers and sisters and friends who had gathered by thousands to do them honor. The officers of the three companies of veterans were: Peter Resopoulos, George Vlachakis, William Christy, Charles Kouras, Peter Stannas, George Sarris, William Kampiras and L. Spyridis.

Acting as honorary bodyguard a file of police, among them Officer Peter Tsafaras, led the long line of Greek soldiers. After the police marched the Sixth regiment band which stirred the air and the hearts of the spectators with Greek, American and other martial airs.

Following these came Pres. Harry Houpis and the directors of the Greek Orthodox community with Dr. John B. Gatsopoulos, the speaker of the day. Then followed the veterans. At their head floated the Star Spangled banner and the blue and white emblem of Greece. The flag bearers were James Couzoulos and Evangelos Christophelias. The presence of the two flags seemed significant, for it seemed to say that the men who had crossed the ocean and the sea to fight for the country of their fathers would fight, too, for the land of their adoption. With the soldiers marched another regiment but it was not a fighting one. It was composed of their children and of their little sisters and brothers. The boys and girls were dressed in the national colors, blue and white, and presented a peaceful contrast to their war-worn elders. Directing the children in the march were Miss Panajiotis Potakake and Demetrios Diakakis, the two teachers at the Greek parochial school. The little ones moved along in faultless style and evoked many a cheer as they waved the flag of their country and that of the country of their fathers. One little fellow in particular was the center of attention. He was dressed in the short skirt, Gorgoneus bodice and natty cap of the Evzones. Costas Caragionis is his name. Led by the Spindle City band, followed the Greek Holy regiment, commanded by Captain Costas Constantinides. Although having fought in practically every battle of the Turkish and Bulgarian wars the captain elected to march with the recruits of the new Holy regiment. Two hundred of these young men were in line and, according to the captain, will be in line in the old country whenever their services are needed. The members of the Pan Hellenic union, with all present, completed the parade.

It was to be noted as the veterans marched along that on each of their breasts hung a medal. This was a token of appreciation from the colony. At the religious services in the morning the medals had been pinned upon the soldiers by Harry Houpis, the president of the local Greeks. Translated into English the inscription follows:

"To the glorious heroes of the war of 1912-13, presented by the Greek colony of Lowell."

The scene was inspiring as each man stepped forward in answer to his name and with head erect and eyes shining received the little piece of ribbon and bit of medal which would show to his children and to his children's children that he had aided his country in one of the most crucial periods of her history. Previous to this ceremony the veterans had been met by the children of the parochial school where they had assembled on the North common and with waving palms and flags from the tiny hands had been brought in honor and triumph to the church.

The religious service

In the afternoon, previous to the parade, a religious service was held by Father Panagopoulos. The gathering in the church overflowed through the doors into the street. The balcony was packed with wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the veterans. Through the stained windows the rays of sunlight upon the beautiful vestments of the priest, danced among the great chandelier pendant from the ceiling and with friendly smile, lit up the faces of the enthusiastic assembly. From a small choir arose the murmuring strains of Byzantine music that invested the scene with reverential solemnity. They shone, too, upon the intertwined flags of the United States and Greece and illumined the standard emblazoned with the legend "The remainder of our Lowell boys who served in two wars." From a small choir arose murmuring strains of Byzantine music, investing the scene with reverential solemnity. The choristers sang hymns for those who are now buried among the battlefields of the Balkans and the priest prayed for the repose of their souls.

A Patriotic Address

Rev. Father Panagopoulos was the first speaker. In a few words he dwelt upon the meaning of the anniversary from a religious and a patriotic viewpoint. He then introduced the principal speaker, Dr. John B. Gatsopoulos. The doctor is an eloquent speaker. Time and time again during his impassioned address he was halted by the applause of the people and by the band, at the entrance of the church, which would flood the air with strains from the Greek national anthem.

In part, the doctor spoke as follows:

"Today is the 3rd anniversary of our independence, when our forefathers united together against the barbarous despotism of the Turks. Only a handful of them, they fought together by land and sea for seven consecutive years, succeeding after many bloody battles in establishing the kingdom of Greece, with the aid of the three powers, England, France and Russia. The brilliancy of their valorous achievements surprised the whole world, which was astonished to see a few thousand of Greeks shake the throne of the powerful sultan."

"Here today we are proud to say that we celebrate the independence in a far different condition. The Greeks of the present time have shown themselves in the battles of 1911 and 1913, against both Turks and Bulgarians, to be worthy sons of the immortal heroes of 1912. From all the corners of the civilized world the Greeks rushed to the call of the bugle to uphold the honor of the fatherland. The Hellenic soldiers of King Constantine fought brilliant battles from Sarantapoli to Salonika, planting the white and blue banner in Salonika, the second greatest city of the Turkish empire, and giving freedom to their suffering brothers.

Prussians of Balkans

But greater glory was awaiting them. Their former brothers in arms, the Bulgars, treacherously turned against them in a selfish effort to deprive them of the fruits of their hard-earned victory. But the victory at Killikish, the stronghold of the Bulgars, taken at the point of the bayonet, saved the whole nation and opened the eyes of blind Europe, showing to her that the Greeks, and only the Greeks, are the Prussians of the Balkans. But that was not all. The following days they captured 10,000 Bulgarians in the battles of Demihissar and Lalama, and the pursuing of them from Salonika to the Bulgarian frontier. Fighting the battles of Kresna and Droumanga. The Greek soldiers of the wars of 1912 and 1913 were immortalized just as surely as were these heroic forefathers who achieved independence in 1821.

"I am proud today to be among the battle-scarred heroes who responded to the call, more than

TOLL EXEMPTION "BENEFITS"

So complete was the discussion of the Panama tolls matter as contained in the recent great speech of Henry Cabot Lodge that it afforded the opportunity of free quotation of almost any phase of the subject, yet some of the other speeches in congress though possibly lacking the completeness and the scope of the Massachusetts senator's speech, emphasize points that are of vital interest to the public. Unbiased judgment, however, is not to be looked for from those who regard the controversy as purely an international matter for to such the implication of surrender to England is enough to call forth thunders of protesting eloquence that put Cicero in the shade. Like a red flag to a bull is the many-sided Panama tolls question to the citizen who feels it incumbent on himself to counteract the influence of the Anglo-man, but unfortunately such a well-meaning individual too often goes to the other extreme of intolerance and unfairness.

Speaking on the domestic aspects of the tolls question recently in congress, Rep. Stringer of Illinois brought out some facts that are very pertinent to the subject and very timely. "There is a popular error abroad," he says, "that the law we seek to repeal guarantees an exemption from tolls in the canal for every vessel flying the American flag." He goes on to show the real facts and their possible influence on American shipping. Under our law no foreign vessel is allowed to engage in the American coastwise trade. In consequence the coastwise trade is a monopoly, protected already by the government, while the American foreign ships are obliged to compete with the trade of the rest of the world. Exemption then would discriminate against a deserving part of the entire American shipping industry and favor those already favored. "If this does not constitute special privilege to a favored few, a policy at variance with every declaration of democratic faith," said Mr. Stringer. "I do not understand the plain logic of everyday things."

Another argument introduced by the representative from Illinois was that the exemption clause is a discrimination against the American people, because thousands of our population who will never use the canal and who will never see it must pay for its digging by taxation and will be called upon to partly pay also for its maintenance and operation. The shouters for the retention of the exemption clause would not in all probability be so enthusiastic if they realized that the aim of their agitation is to make the rank and file of the American people pay for a government grant to the shipping trust.

Referring to the "our" which is so often used by the popular agitator, Mr. Stringer drew a nice distinction. "Our canal," he said, "does not mean that it is the shipowners' canal, that it belongs to the Shipping Trust or that it is the special property of a favored few." The "our" he said should mean that it belongs to all the people. It should mean also "that no limited class of men shall be allowed to use it free of cost when all the people, all the taxpayers, who had paid for its construction will have to pay for its maintenance and operation as well."

From "our canal" he quite naturally came to "our ships." "We talk of our ships," he said, as though they belong to the people. They are the shipowners' ships. They are the Shipping Trusts' ships. They are 'their ships' and not 'our ships' and they want to use 'our canal' for their ships without paying one cent for the upkeep and operation of the canal, when it was constructed by all and for all."

ENFORCE TRAFFIC RULES

If all who have an interest in the enforcing of traffic rules in this city could be prevailed upon to stand at Merrimack square for an hour in the busy part of the morning or the afternoon, the result would surely be an insistence on the part of the authorities on all that relates to the handling of traffic properly. From now on the automobile traffic will be considerably heavier, and it is for the interest of the citizens that the laws be once again defined and enforced without fear or favor. Many Lowell drivers of teams and automobiles violate traffic rules daily in this city that they would observe faithfully if in Boston. And why? Because they know that to ignore or to violate a traffic regulation in Boston means almost certain prosecution.

Warnings or shakings of the finger are not enough to restrain those who scoff at traffic rules; neither is a spasmodic enforcement of the law effective. About a year ago an effort was made to remedy congestion, to define directions, to specify corner-turning regulations, and so on, and with good results. One-way streets were set aside to the advantage of citizens generally. If the public memory is good a fair foundation has been laid and the time is ripe for the superstructure of law enforcement. Now is the time to begin properly before the advanced season strengthens the habit of traffic indifference from which Lowell already suffers acutely.

THE COLLAPSED SEWER

One effect that the collapse of the sewer section in Gorham street should have is to ensure the thorough examination of the sewer in any section where paving of the concrete variety is to be laid, thus providing against future waste. The building of the sewer in question evidently was a poor job, and the city got cheated out of some of the taxpayers' money, but people are not apt to get worked up over a wretched piece of bungling in city building that goes back almost 26 years—as was probably considered by those responsible for the condition when the work was done. Of more recent date, however, was the paving of Gorham street which now will have to be partly torn up with a double waste of money. If the city was harnessed in the case of the Gorham street sewer, how can we be certain that other sewers of the period are in any better condition? To live in daily expectation of street, sag and collapse is not a cheerful outlook, and there is a great deal in the situation which should prove a warning to those who have charge of directing the city's sewer work at the present. When the public wakes up to the fact that the business of a city is the business of its citizens, we may hope for fewer occurrences such as the collapse of the Gorham street sewer.

ANTI-VACCINATION BILL

Year after year the minority among the public which thinks that individual parents should be the judges of whether their children should be vaccinated have brought pressure to bear on the legislature for the setting aside of the present law which compels vaccination as a requisite for entry to the public schools. This year there is danger that their contention might be effective. Probably with a feeling to get rid of a troublesome hard annual many of those in the house and senate have given their approval to a bill which is certainly opposed by all leaders of medicine and which would seem to be more pernicious in its possibilities than the average person is aware. The Boston Herald says wisely that as we do not let individual parents decide whether certain diseases like diphtheria are contagious, so we should not let them decide whether it is advisable to have their children vaccinated. Vaccination may be somewhat of an evil, but as yet it is a necessary evil. A law to interfere with it is a step backwards, and it is a matter that might well be let alone.

THE BILLARD MYSTERY

The officials of the Billiard company took a rather strange position in refusing to give any testimony regarding their company in its relations with the New Haven before the interstate commerce commission at Washington. Even though their stand was based "on the advice of counsel" the wisdom of it was questionable. The New Haven railroad has learned that when the public wishes to get at any inside information it generally finds a way to get what it wants, and though there are certain business secrets that should not be a part of the public's business, secrecy creates an attitude of the public mind that does not conduce to the prosperity of the property under discussion. Whether the transactions of the Billiard company with the New Haven were above board or the contrary, nothing can now be gained by the unwise attitude of the treasurer and other officials of the mysterious Billiard company.

TRICKS IN ATHLETICS

Speaking at a banquet in Boston recently Alfred E. Stearns, head of Phillips-Andover academy said that the practice of taking advantage of times when the umpire is not looking to work some tricks in athletics is contrary to the spirit of fair play, and the public generally will agree with him. A game is a fair game only when the spirit as well as the letter of the rules are observed, and the best influence of a game on the popular mind is when it is played with a spirit which we call "sportsmanlike." In the enthusiasm of the moment those who take part in all games may momentarily yield to the temptation of working some unfair advantage over an adversary but school heads and coaches should aim at the creation of high ideals. Baseball is a serious addition to American summer life and anything that tends to elevate it to a higher plane is an influence for public good. Luckily it is one game where the chances of foul play are almost reduced to a minimum. Even the most effervescent fan will soon tire of the sort of thing that the college head denounced.

AMERICAN NURSES

The personal representative of Queen Eleonora of Bulgaria who is here making preparations for the official visit of his royal mistress declared a few days ago that one of the queen's principal aims in coming to America is to study American hospitals and the methods used here in the training of nurses. "During the recent war in the Balkans," said Mr. Caspar, it was American nurses who did the most to relieve the sufferings of the wounded and sick Bulgarians. Nurses of other nationalities were not nearly so competent." This is gratifying praise for a body of splendid women who are doing a noble work in the eradicating of disease and who are indirectly advancing the cause of medicine, and it is praise that comes readily from many other quarters. Many of the states have erected statues to the nurses of war time, and it is generally admitted that no better trained or more competent body of women are banded together for the alleviation of suffering than the nurses of America at the present time.

YOU'RE BILIOUS AND COSTIVE!—CASCARETS

Sick Headache or Sour Stomach Means Sluggish Liver and Bowels

Get a 10-cent box now. Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miscrable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little bodies need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

IN THE SPRINGTIME

Swish! with the suds, and swish! with the broom! Scour and brush up and dust every room! Beat all the carpets and shake all the rugs. Make mighty sure that there aren't any—slugs! Clean with the cleaner, and paint and varnish.

For winter is gone, and the springtime is here.

Wash all the windows, and polish the panes! Don't depend longer on casual rains. Scrub out the woodwork and varnish the floors.

Wash off the hand-marks you'll find on the doors.

For now it down with the dirt and the grime!

Winter is gone, and it's house-cleaning time! —Somerville Journal.

PHONE WIRES DOWN

WORCESTER SYSTEM, JUST RECOVERED FROM FIRE, IS BADLY CRIPPLED BY WIND STORM

WORCESTER, April 13.—Worcester's telephone service, hardly recovered from the effects of the exchange fire of a few weeks ago, was partly crippled again yesterday by the wind storm that blew throughout the afternoon and evening.

Several large telephone cables on Illinois street snapped as if they were strands of worsted and all the phones served by the thousands of small wires in the cable, were put out of commission.

The wind, which reached a maximum velocity of 57 miles an hour, blew down 15 electric light and telephone poles. It uprooted a large elm tree in front of 43 Orchard street, breaking most of the windows on the front of the building and blocking the street.

The top story of the residence being built for George C. Hubbard, on Kenilworth road was blown off and the structure otherwise damaged.

Electric signs and awnings were blown down and windows were broken all over the city.

Sparks from locomotives set grass fires along the railroad tracks and the fire department was kept busy. One of these fires burned over 50 acres and the firemen fought it from 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon to late in the evening.

HOW TO KEEP WELL IN WINTER

Do not let your blood get thin this winter. For people who have a tendency toward anæmia, or bloodlessness, winter is a trying season. Lack of exercise and fresh air, the more restricted diet, many things combine to lower the tone of the body and deplete the blood.

As soon as you notice the tired feeling, lack of appetite and shortness of breath that are warning symptoms of thin blood take a short treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Do not wait until the color has entirely left your cheeks, until your lips are white, your eyes are dull and your ears like molten metal. It is so much easier to correct thinning of the blood in the earlier stages than later.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. In this way the general health is improved, the appetite increases, the digestion is strengthened and new ambition and energy developed. Work becomes easier because it does not cause exhaustion.

Keep your system at its highest efficiency with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the great blood builder and nerve tonic. Your own druggist can supply you. A booklet "Building Up the Blood" will be mailed free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. It is well worth studying by all who do not enjoy complete health.

COULD NOT TAKE IT ALL

KENNEBUNK, ME., DEPUTY SHERIFFS DID CONFISCATE 47 QUARTS OF LIQUOR ON TRAIN

KENNEBUNK, Me., April 13.—Description was written on the faces of two Portland men when Ernest L. Jones and Frank A. Chick, deputy sheriffs, entered the smoker of an eastbound train Saturday night and confiscated 30 quarts of whiskey and 17 quarts of beer, piled with about 60 quarts more in the forward side seat of the car, without apparent ownership.

The deputies would have taken more but could not handle it during the time the train stopped at the passenger station, with the men who were blocking the aisles all they dared. The liquor was placed in the seat at Dover.

Biddeford officers were telephoned and it is supposed they seized some when the train reached Biddeford.

IN POLICE COURT

Non-Support Cases
Were Numerous at
Today's Session

The police court docket this morning showed a large number of defendants, the majority of them being drunks. Probation Officer Slattery released no less than fifteen first offenders who were arrested Saturday.

Judge Pickman who occupied the bench this morning in Judge Burleigh's absence, ordered the release of four more first offenders. In all of these cases complaints had been made to the arresting officers but the complainants failed to materialize in police court.

Arrested Saturday afternoon and released Saturday night and re-arrested Sunday afternoon is the history of John Cosak during the past two days. Cosak pleaded guilty to his third offense this morning. Cosak's wife was also a defendant on a drunkenness charge. It was the woman who occupied the bench this morning. The family history was explained to the court by the arresting officer. Cosak has been abusing his wife and two children for a long time, the officer told Judge Pickman. Both man and wife were during the day and night two children are cared for by one of the neighbors. The wife on condition that she would stop drinking and provide for the children. The husband, however, was sent to jail for three months. He appeared and was held in the sum of $200.

William Gendin appeared for the second time within a year on a charge of drunkenness. Gendin was on probation but was released with a tax of $6.

John Carvel and Mike Carabatsid were continued on their own recognizance on a charge of drunkenness. Their trial will be held tomorrow.

A Thug's Reputation

Rose Gagne pleaded guilty to being a lewd and wanton person and the facts in the case were presented to the court by the superintendent. The defendant comes from Salem and has only been in Lowell some two months. During this time her career has been anything but exemplary.

The police of Salem as well as the girls' folks were notified. The Gagne girl bears an undesirable character in the Witch City and is under a suspended sentence there to Sherborn.

Judge Pickman asked her if there was anything she wished to say before sentence was passed upon her and she said that there was. She was sworn in and took the witness stand.

The girl, who is only eighteen years of age, informed the court that there were several men in Lowell who were responsible for the life that she is leading and that she thought they should be apprehended and brought to justice as well as herself. Her case was continued until tomorrow morning in order to allow the police to investigate her story.

Non-Support Cases

Frank E. Rose, the young man arrested in Lowell last Saturday on a warrant, gotten out here, pleaded guilty this morning to the non-support of his two small children. The young man's story was one of hard luck in landing a job which would support both himself and children.

Mrs. Dury, an old lady who has the children under her care, stated that she had not received the stipulated $5.00 per week from the defendant for the care of his children. Rose promised to send on this sum each week and to pay as much as possible of what is already due. This settlement seemed to be satisfactory to both parties.

A West Berlin non-support case was brought when Andrew Harrower pleaded not guilty to neglecting his wife's support. Charges and counter-charges were brought by the couple against each other.

After a lengthy hearing Judge Pickman found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay his wife $2.75 a week. Harrower took an appeal and the court changed his sentence to a $5 fine.

Andrew Langlois was also charged with the non-support of his young wife. Langlois admitted his guilt but appeared penitent and the case was held over for a month with a finding in the hope that husband and wife might reach some amicable compromise.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY

OF ST. PATRICK'S PARISH TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Patrick's church will hold their annual meeting Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. A feature of the meeting will be the election of officers for the ensuing year and the reports of the present officers, including that of the spiritual director, Rev. Joseph A. Curran.

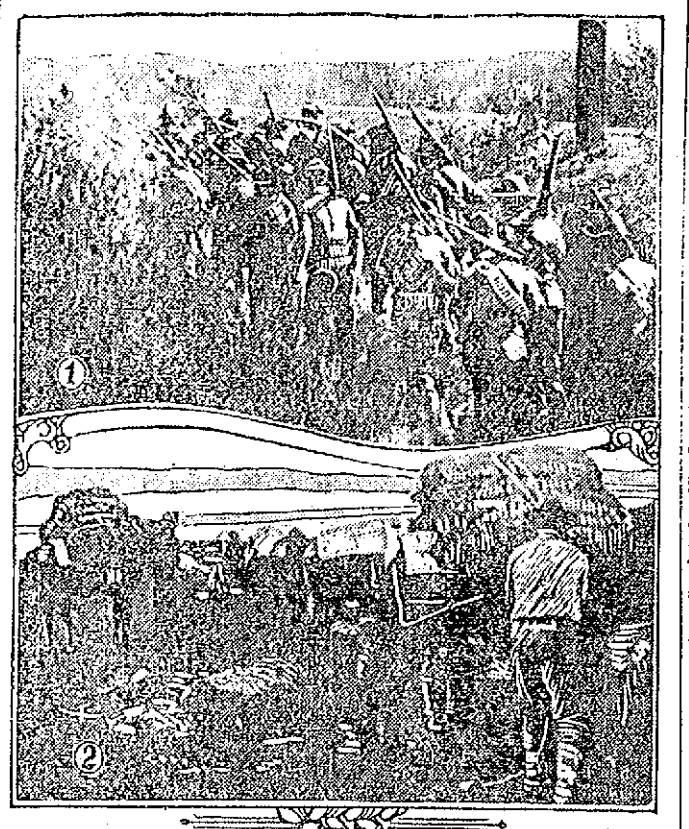

A very important meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's church will be held next Sunday evening. The spiritual director, Rev. Joseph A. Curran, expects that over 100 new members will be received into the society, and to all appearances the meeting will be one of the most interesting held for a long time. All members are requested to be present.

WANTED TO DIE

Woman Prevented from Jumping Into Hale's
Brook by Fireman

A young woman attempted suicide in Lincoln street between 5 and 5:30 o'clock last evening. She was prevented from jumping into Hale's brook from the Lincoln street bridge by a fireman from the Lincoln street house. The fireman noticed that the woman acted peculiarly and he walked as near her as possible without attracting attention. He was about 10 feet behind her when she attempted to jump from the bridge and he grabbed her. She fought desperately, saying that she wanted to die. A carriage was ordered and the woman was taken to her home. Names are withheld by request.

SEIGEL INVESTIGATION

Begun by Grand Jury in Boston
Today—Mrs. Diana Eddy Brown
a Witness

BOSTON, April 13.—An investigation to determine whether false returns of the financial condition of the Henry Siegel Co. of Boston had been made to the commissioner of corporations was begun by the grand jury today. The witnesses who reported to District Attorney Pelletier included Mrs. Diana Eddy Brown and a number of clerks formerly employed in the office of the company. Mrs. Henry Siegel and Joseph Siegel, an official of the company, were not present when the investigation opened, although it was said that Mr. Siegel would be on hand later in the day.

Three witnesses had appeared before the grand jury when the noon recess was taken. Mrs. Diana Eddy Brown, James E. Lynch, chief clerk of the banking department and James W. Hall, a public auditor.

Previous to appearing before the grand jury, Mrs. Brown was interviewed at length by Assistant District Attorney Lavelle. It was stated at the office of the district attorney that the object of the investigation was to discover if any money had been received at the banking department after it was known that the bank superintendency proceedings were about to be begun.

FOR FISH AND GAME

Committee on Ways and Means
Recommends Big Cut—Lowell
Association is Interested

Members of the Lowell Fish and Game association and others interested in fishing and hunting will be sorry to learn that the legislative committee on ways and means has recommended only $127,500 for the department of fisheries and game.

Messrs. Field and Adams of the fish and game commission came to Lowell a few nights ago and addressed a meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association. They did not anticipate at that time that the ways and means was going to recommend a deep cut in the appropriation and they talked very optimistically of the future.

In view of the big cut recommended by this committee the commission will attempt to the different fish and game associations to talk the matter over with their representatives and explain to them how necessary it is that the amount asked for should be granted.

The cut recommended by the committee is a very decided one. It reduces, for example, the amount asked for fishing, telegraph, telephone and other expenses incidental to running the office from $10,270 to $1775, of which $2188 has been expended for the first four months, leaving for the remaining eight months only $2289.

For the lions grouped under the enforcement of law it recommends $14,100, in place of $50,500 asked for and as compared with $22,365, appropriated in 1913. The amount recommended by the ways and means committee, $14,100 is insufficient even to provide for the present number of deputies. The 30 deputies require $31,000.

The $500 recommended by the committee is grossly inadequate for stocking 500 great ponds and the thousands of miles of rivers and brooks.

Included in the items which are wholly unprovided for is the care and maintenance of fishways as required in Section 12, Chapter 51, Revised Laws, and Section 5, Chap. 51, Revised Laws, as amended by Chapter 366, Acts of 1901. For that $1500 had been asked. For continuing work in developing food fish in public waters $2500 was asked, and for purchase and distribution of fish eggs, birds and mammals $5000 was wanted. For transporting and distributing fish eggs and fry received from the federal bureau of fisheries $3500 was asked.

The Leopard Moth

The loss of the Harvard class and the impending destruction of the large trees on Boston common are directly attributable to the ravages of the leopard moth, an insect which elsewhere is kept under control by woodpeckers, and is a result of failure to protect the woodpeckers and provide suitable meeting sites for these useful birds. To check the hordes of the elm leaf beetle, many thousands of dollars are usually expended in spraying operations. Until relatively few years ago this insect, though present, was controlled by birds. The chief enemy of this beetle is the cherry bird (amphisp. cedrorum), one of the birds which is becoming rare in the neighborhood of cities. The other countries, notably England and Germany, successfully utilize both the wild and propagated birds as the natural checks to increase of such pests as the army worm, gypsy and blowfly moths, etc., and in addition rear such a large annual crop of birds as to export more than $1,000,000 worth of hand reared birds to be used as food, or as breeding stock for extending artificial propagation of such species.

The activities of the Massachusetts fish and game commission cover not alone the enforcement of laws relative to insectivorous and game birds, marine and inland fishes, but their duties act as rural police for the protection of woodlands against forest fires, the farmers' fences and alone walls from damage by unthinking hunters; but on the more constructive side maintain hatcheries for propagating and distributing useful fish to the public waters, game and insectivorous birds to the covers and in addition each year develop advanced methods and give actual vocational training to several young men in rearing fish and birds and administering hatcheries and game farms, maintain numerous reservations as safe keeping and breeding for useful birds and game mammals and seek to develop such important intent state assets as clam beds and quahogs and other shell fish beds, the lobster and other fisheries as a source of food and wealth to the people.

BRYAN ON CANAL TOLLS

Defends President in Eloquent Statement Dealing With Many Phases of Question

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Secretary Bryan in a statement made public yesterday lengthily reviews the Panama canal question, and in the course of the statement declares that the repeal of the tolls exemption in the Panama canal act "cannot be construed to be a construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty" but is "simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise that question in that way."

Mr. Bryan discusses various features of the subject—the "limiting of debate in the House of Representatives, the Baltimore platform, and the effect of repeal on the treaty."

Claiming that the opponents of the repeal had seized upon the charge that the president was "surrendering to England," Mr. Bryan declared that the opposition to the repeal had attempted to appeal "to prejudice rather than to reason."

Defends Great Britain

"What has Great Britain done," he asked, "to justify the accusation that she is trying to dictate to this country. She has simply called attention to the terms of the treaty, and asked for arbitration of the question of construction. In case this government differs from the British government in the construction to be placed upon the language. The very men who are so insistent upon constructing the treaty to permit free tolls, delayed for months the ratification of the treaty with Great Britain because of their opposition to any arbitration of the subject? In other words they construct the treaty to permit discrimination, and then objected to allowing any international court to express an opinion on the subject. If, as a matter of fact, the treaty grants the rights which Great Britain claims, is it a 'surrender to Great Britain' for our nation to repeal a law that raised that question? The repeal of the law cannot be construed to be a construction of the treaty. It is simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise that question in that way. In the controversy over the Welland canal, Canada withdrew a discrimination which she had made in favor of Canadian ships. In order that no cause for friction with the United States authorities in regard to the matter should exist."

Why cannot the United States withdraw a discrimination for the same reason? When the treaty involved an attempt was made to so amend it as to permit a discrimination in favor of coastwise vessels but it was vetoed down by a decided majority. With this record to support them, what strange that foreign nations question our right to make an exception in favor of American vessels?

Regarding Pres. Wilson

Discussing the president's right to expect the support of congress when he deals with international questions, Secretary Bryan adds:

"The chief executive speaks for this nation in international affairs, and it is only fair to assume that he speaks adversely when he declares that interference with other nations is seriously endangered by the free-tolls law which he seeks to repeal."

But even if the platform had not contained within itself a complete refutation of the position taken by the advocates of free tolls, the president would have been justified in the position that he took by the changed conditions which confronted him. A platform is a pledge and is as binding upon an official as the command of a military officer is upon a subordinate—the construction cannot be made stronger. But the subordinate officer is sometimes compelled to act upon his judgment where a change of which the commanding officer is not aware has taken place in conditions. It is not only the right of the subordinate to judge the situation for himself where conditions have changed since the order was given, but it is his duty to do so. In the case under consideration the president takes responsibility for a official act which he regards as necessary for his country's welfare, and the people must decide whether or not he is justified, and those who refuse to act with him also

Present Changed Conditions

ARE WAGES PAID, SAYS MISS MARGARET FOLEY, TO WORKING WOMEN

BOSTON, April 13.—The extension of the ballot to the women of Massachusetts, as a method of solving problems arising out of the low wages paid working women, was urged yesterday afternoon by Miss Margaret Foley, at a special meeting for stenographers, telephone operators and other workers held in the suffrage headquarters, 555 Boylston street.

"Wages are paid according to sex, not according to merit," declared Miss Foley. "That it is a menace to working men to pay low wages to women is realized by the American Federation of Labor, which endorses woman suffrage because it believes that, with universal suffrage, women will be able to secure higher wages from employers, who will respect them when armed with the ballot. Mrs. May O'Sullivan also addressed the meeting."

Point Out Dangers of Inefficient Installation and Inspection—Increased Loss of Life and Property Result

BOSTON, April 13.—An appalling increase in the loss of life and property in New England through inefficient electrical installation, inspection and inspection was reported by a special committee to the New England Council of Electrical Workers' union yesterday.

"We believe," said the report, "that these casualties and the loss of life could be averted to a very great extent by thorough and rigid inspection by practical experienced men of all the electrical appliances and installation

CHALIFOUX CORNER

Men, take more interest in Dry Goods than formerly. Once it was hard to get a man into a Dry Goods store; now they come in and you would certainly be surprised to know how well some men are posted in regard to styles. Bring your men folks down to the Women's Section at Chalifoux's next time you come. Give them a treat, let them see how well you look in some of our new spring clothes. Then go with them and see how well they look in some of our new spring clothing.

Mrs. Scudder made no opposition when the police arrived and took her to the station, where she was placed in the detention room. Mr. Scudder was 50 years old, and Mrs. Scudder is 30.

Three Vacuum Cleaners

There are three distinct types of electric vacuum cleaners.

The first we call the "broomstick type."

The second we term the "regular portable."

The third is known as the "cellar system."

In the next three issues of this paper we will describe each type consecutively. Watch for it.

SLAYERS DIE WITHOUT MAKING CONFESSION

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., April 13.—The four gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal died in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at the break of day this Easter Monday morning. None confessed his guilt and none mentioned the name of Charles Becker, the former police lieutenant found guilty of instigating the murder but saved by the court of appeals reversal.

One of the four who died "Whitey Lewis" made the only statement. Even he did not flatly assert his innocence. "Gentlemen," he mumbled, as they strapped him in the chair, "I did not shoot at Rosenthal. Then who said I did was perjured. For the sake of justice, gentlemen, I say I did not. The witness Stanish—"

Whitey did not finish the sentence. The strange harness had been adjusted and the current shot his body forward in the chair. He had meant to say Stanish, a waiter and a witness at the murder trial had lied; but death intervened.

MIDNIGHT INJUNCTIONS

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Wilson and Chairman Clayton and Representatives Floyd and Carlin of the house judiciary committee after an hour's conference agreed to consolidate in one measure the main feature of the Sherman law definition's bill and the bills to prohibit interlocking directorates and holding companies. The president agreed to the insertion of the principles embodied in two measures which passed the house last year providing for the regulation of injunctions in labor cases and trial by jury in contempt cases.

Mr. Clayton said that while they had not discussed the proposed exemption from prosecution under the trust laws of labor unions and farmers' organizations he believed that legislation providing for the abolition of the so-called "midnight injunctions" and jury trial in contempt cases would be ample to cover disputes that had arisen in labor cases.

Mr. Clayton said he expected to introduce the combination bill tomorrow and submit it to the entire judiciary committee in a few days, expecting expeditious action.

"There is to be no curtailment of the administration program," said Mr. Clayton.

LOWELL BOY KILLED IN POLICE BATTLE

Charles Belleville of Laval Place is Dead and Arthur Giguere of
Tucker St., Under Arrest at Mc-
Allister, Oklahoma

The following telegram was received by Supt. Welch this morning from a firm of undertakers in McAllister, Okla.:

McAllister, Okla., April 12, 1914.
Chief of Police, Lowell, Mass.

Chas. Belleville dead. Arthur Roy captured. Attempted burglary. Given address "15 Tucker street, Lowell." Wire instructions for body.

Undertaker Chaney.

Such is the fate of two Lowell boys who left home here only two months ago for a wandering life, with no particular destination. There were three in the party of young Lowell men who set out at that time for a trip through the west.

Chas. Belleville, the young man killed in the attempted burglary, formerly lived at 5 Laval place, off Allen street. The two companions with whom he left Lowell were Homer Noel of Aiken street and Arthur Giguere of 10 Tucker street.

It is thought that the prisoner repented in the telegram to have been captured at the time Belleville was killed by the police in reality Arthur Giguere instead of Arthur Roy. The third boy of the party which left Lowell in search of adventure does not appear in the affair.

Both the dead man and the prisoner mentioned in the dispatch are well known to the local police. Giguere, in fact, is now under a suspended sentence to the Massachusetts reformatory at Concord for depredations committed by himself and several companions here.

The full particulars of the affair which resulted so disastrously to the young men have not yet been learned. The character of it can plainly be read though when the fact is taken into consideration that the police of the Oklahoma city took no chances and went into action at once with their revolvers with deadly effect to Belleville.

Belleville and Giguere have both been off on questionable expeditions before this last trip and their people have found themselves unable to impose any restraint upon them. They both led wild and vicious lives while in Lowell, and the sad end of the Belleville boy was long ago prophesied unless he changed his manner of living.

Supt. Welch replied to the telegram of the undertakers this morning. The father of the dead boy does not feel that he can afford to pay the expense of having his son's body brought on here for burial and the message so informed the Oklahoma concern. A brother of Giguere called at the station and after a consultation with the superintendent said that he thought that Roy was his brother without a doubt. The last place from which any word was received from the pair was St. Louis, Mo.

Mother in Woonsocket

Charles Belleville, the young man who was killed by a police officer at McAllister, Okla., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Belleville of 5 Laval place, this city. The mother of the young man resides in Woonsocket, R. I., with one of her sons, while the rest of the family make their home at the above address in Lowell.

Arthur Giguere, the young man who was arrested by the same officer who shot and killed Belleville, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Giguere of 13 Joliette avenue, white Omer Noel resides at 111 Perkins street. Belleville's father works, and could not be seen by a Sun reporter who tried to locate him this afternoon. Two sisters of Giguere were seen, however, and they said their brother with Belleville and Noel left Lowell some three or four weeks ago. Giguere had just completed serving a sentence at the Concord reformatory and had been at home but a couple of months when he left on his long journey with his two companions. The girls informed the writer that the young man was employed at the Tremont & Suffolk mill and was doing well. They said on a Saturday morning he went to his work and after drawing his pay he went away and no news had been received from him since.

The Belleville boy who was killed was accustomed to the traveling life, for it seems that he had left home on several previous occasions. On one of his wild trips he met with a railroad accident, the result of which was the loss of the left arm. It was stated today that before the young man left on his last trip he secured some $45 of his mother's money and went west.

Mrs. Noel, mother of Omer Noel, was seen by the writer this afternoon and she said her boy left home some three weeks ago. At that time he had $7 or $8 in his possession and he said he was going to try his luck in Montreal, Que. She does not know where he is at the present time for she has not received word from him since he left home. It was stated that the Noel boy left his companions enroute and it is believed that he is now in Montreal where he was supposed to have gone.

The father of the Belleville boy will not do anything toward having the body of his son brought to Lowell, and it is very probable that the remains will be buried at McAllister, Okla.

CARRIAGE TIPPED OVER

Four Persons Had Narrow Escape in Runaway at Brighton—Driver Bruised and Shaken

BOSTON, April 12.—After a very close shave, a runaway horse for some distance, tipped over a carriage, through the streets of Brighton, today. The horse, owned by Arthur L. Stevens, of 115 North Street, was driven by a driver, who was severely injured. The horse was running wild, and the carriage was overturned. The driver was bruised and shaken. The horse was taken to the livery stable.

old, and two sons, Lawrence, 17, and George A., 15 years. The frightened horse dashed down the hill, with the carriage lurching and swaying behind, but Mr. Stevens managed to keep the animal on a fairly straight course and avoided collisions. As the horse neared Washington and Tremont streets, Brighton, the horse was practically under control, but in turning out for another carriage, the wheels caught in the car tracks and the carriage was overturned.

BUNTINGS ARE JUBILANT

The most encouraging reports heard thus far were returned by the various members of the athletic committee of the Bunting club at their weekly meeting held Saturday afternoon in preparation for the big athletic carnival to be held Memorial day afternoon. More members responded at Saturday's rollcall than at any previous session.

There were several subcommittees appointed at the last meeting and their work during the week was formally reported to the main body of the committee. In every instance these reports were accepted with a vote of thanks for the energy and time spent by the respective members.

Messrs. Humphreys and Dickson returned from a visit to the New England headquarters of the A. A. U. and told what they had found relative to the Bunting club joining the amateur organization. It was put to a vote and unanimously carried to enter an application for membership in the A. A. U. Full particulars were given by the subcommittee.

The marathon run from Lawrence to Lowell was discussed at length, and it was voted to start the race at the Lawrence Y. M. C. A. building. The course will take the runners along the car tracks of the Lowell-Lawrence line and will terminate on the track of the club.

The cup committee, composed of Messrs. Wilde, Dickson and Walker met with success in their search for the best prizes available for the long distance winners over the long grind. Full power was voted this committee in procuring cups for the three first men to finish in this event.

William Dickson and John C. Walker were placed upon a committee to interview the winner of the B. A. A. marathon classic on Patriots day, and it was also voted that the secretary, George Emsley, be empowered to communicate with the first six men who finished in Saturday's cathedral 10-mile run with a view of getting in these men's entries for the Bunting race.

The Sun's sporting representative, Cecil P. Dodge, was present at the meeting, and was accorded a vote of thanks for his help in explaining the intricacies of the A. A. U. rulings in the matter of amateur competition. The meeting adjourned until next Saturday afternoon.

MAN SHOT BY STRANGER

ANTONIO MESSINA ATTACKED ON SUMMER STREET, BOSTON—THREE OF SHOTS TOOK EFFECT

BOSTON, April 12.—Antonio Messina, 36, was slain last night about 11 o'clock by one of three men whom he met on Summer street, East Boston. The man opened fire on him, firing four shots from a .32 caliber revolver, three of which took effect. Messina was removed to the East Boston relief hospital where the bullet wounds were complicated and unless complications set in he will recover.

According to the story Messina told the police, he was walking down Summer street, when three men came along toward him, but he paid no particular attention to them, and when he was a few feet away one of the three, whom Messina states he knows by sight, and whose first name is Tony, pulled the gun and opened fire on him.

The first shot struck him in the left leg between the knee and the thigh, the second went through his right hand, dropping him to the sidewalk, and while lying there a fourth was fired, which passed over his head as he fell to the sidewalk.

Messina, who lives at 53 Charter street, North End, denied to the police that he had ever had trouble with the man, whom he says he knew but did not know his last name. The latter statement being contradicted by the police, who scout the idea of a man being shot three times by a stranger when the victim of the shooting declares he does not know. They believe that the affair is the outcome of a previous feud.

EASTER AT BILLERICA

Easter Sunday was appropriately observed in all the churches of Billerica yesterday with appropriate sermons and special musical programs. All the services were well attended, and the beautiful decorations which adorned the churches added to the splendor of the observance.

The Easter festival was celebrated at St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, with the usual services and music with large congregations at all the masses. The church was elaborately decorated with flowers and potted plants, the Easter lily predominating in the floral display. Masses were celebrated at 8 and 10 o'clock with Rev. David J. Murphy officiating. The choir was directed by Mr. Charles Fairbrother and Miss Edith Horne was organist. The sermon was a very forcible presentation of the truths of the resurrection as proving the divinity of Christ and the resurrection of the body.

Keep Looking Young

The secret of keeping young—is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a new skin of wrinkles under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle.

Your doctor will tell you almost percent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards' well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound, mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for salado, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that excellent condition of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio. All druggists.

church Rev. Charles H. Williams delivered a sermon on the subject, "The God of the Living," at the morning service. The pulpit was profusely decorated with Easter lilies and other flowers. Music was furnished by the church choir under the direction of Miss Mink Clifford. In the evening a concert was given by the children of the Sunday school.

At St. Anne's mission the feast was observed in the usual manner with special music by a vested choir and a forceful sermon by Rev. Samuel Jabe, the pastor.

The services at the First Baptist church at Billerica Centre were also appropriate to Easter. At the morning service at 10:15 o'clock a special musical program was furnished by the choir, recitations were given by the young people, and the pastor gave a short address. An evening service was held at 7 o'clock.

Easter Sunday was observed at the Congregational church at Billerica Centre yesterday with an elaborate program. An early morning service for prayer and praise was held at 6:30 o'clock. The regular morning service was held at 10:45 o'clock with an Easter sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. Harold Dale, and in the evening he took for his subject, "What Easter Means to Me." The church was beautifully decorated and music was furnished by a mixed quartet.

Shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon the North Billerica fire department was called out to extinguish a brush fire on land near the Paulson estate, about a mile from the North village. The blaze was burning furiously when the firemen arrived but was put out before any damage was done.

Another brush fire, which started late yesterday afternoon on land on Call street, gave the fire department about an hour's battle. When the alarm was sounded the blaze was spreading rapidly but the members of the fire department succeeded in checking its progress and no damage was done.

Highway Surveyor Edgar F. Twombly has appointed Christopher Walker street sweeper at North Billerica. Mr. Walker will take up his duties in a short time.

STAMPING OUT PLAGUES

In Time the Tropics Will Contribute Their Part to Sustenance and Development of Race

WASHINGTON, April 12.—"When we see Naples, in the 17th century, as helpless as a new-born babe in the grip of a plague during which 350,000 souls perished in six months; when we see Constantinople, in 1812, with 141,000 deaths; when we see London, in the days of the great plague, with 70,000 of its population carried off; when we go back to China and behold a few short years in the 14th century with a 'black death' mortality record of 13 million souls, and to Europe, in the great scourges of 1347-1350, and see 25 million people dying; when we come on down the years and see the untold millions who have died from the numerous pestilences which have inflicted death upon mankind; then, and not till then, can we begin to appreciate what the patient man of the microscope has wrought in humanity's behalf," writes William Joseph Shawwater, in an article on "Redeeming the Tropics," sent to the National Geographic society, at Washington, D. C. The writer paints a glorious picture of the future when the tropics, freed of ravishing diseases, will be taking their part in the sustenance and development of the world.

"How can the mind conceive of the terrible toll epidemic diseases would take today, with our world-wide commerce, with our metropolitan and cosmopolitan cities, and with the constant commingling of the people of all lands, were it not for preventive measures?" continues Mr. Shawwater. "For hundreds of years man stood helpless and appalled in the face of the onset of great epidemics. He saw millions of his fellow-beings visited with deaths more horrible than ever torture chamber could invent, but not knowing whence the affliction came or whether it went. He surmised and guessed, and finally saw a certain relation between dirt and disease, and gradually the elimination of dirt checked the ravages of some epidemic diseases."

The writer then reviews the results of the discovery of the part taken by the mosquito in the carrying of yellow and malarial fever germs, the flies on rats and ground squirrels in the transmission of bubonic plague, the tsetse fly in the carrying of sleeping sickness, and more recently the body louse as the typhus agent. The ordinary house-fly has been christened the "typhoid fly." Typhoid vaccination and the purification of the water supplies are described. Panama, Cuba, Porto Rico, Brazil, Italy, India, the Philippines and many other tropical countries have been redeemed from their various scourges.

"The fundamental principles of the fight are expressively laid down in simple terms like these: 'No mosquitoes, no malaria; no yellow fever, no dengue. No flies, no bubonic plague; no lice, no typhus; no tsetse-fly, no sleeping sickness; no ticks, no spotted fever.' Not only does sanitary science open up the tropics for man himself, but for his domestic animals as well. In the generations to come, there can be no doubt that with a sanitary colon that is broad enough to reach both man and beast, the great plains of the highlands in the tropics will be converted into vast cattle ranches, where cattle can be brought to the stock stage and then shipped to the temperate climates for feeding and finishing, thus adding to the world's meat supply to the extent of billions of pounds."

"The discoveries that have brought about this era of control of tropical diseases have a deeper significance than would appear upon the surface. Here, indeed, lies the hope of the world's future food supply. Meanwhile, with the restrictions imposed by disease removed, tides of immigration might set into the tropics, populating

Indiana, the expenditure for this purpose in 1901 amounted to $86,000, while in 1908, $290,000 was expended. This expenditure for transportation reflects, in a general way, the extent and progress of this new educational movement. It must not be understood that this is an additional burden, as the expenditure thus made is saved in other directions—that is by the decrease in the number of schools and economy in their operation.

In Indiana, Massachusetts, Ohio and other states, the one-room, one-teacher schools are being replaced by Central schoolhouses, with a half dozen rooms and as many teachers. Wagons are sent out every day to gather up the children and to take them home again in the evening. All of the children within a radius of several miles are thus provided with the most modern school facilities. In some of these schools, courses in manual training, agriculture and home economics have been introduced, scientific apparatus utilized, and teachers having special qualifications and training employed.

Perren was making the turn from Chandler into Main street when he smashed into the State auto. Mr. Stace took him to the hospital in his machine and then reported the matter to the police. The motorcycle was demolished and the side of the auto dented.

Miss Gray was taken into Miss Gordon's employ in Toronto some 18 months ago. Saturday night she left her mistress, who is living at 217 Huntington avenue, and Sunday morning Miss Gordon discovered that a beautiful diamond cluster ring, valued at $150, and pearl ear rings, said to be worth over $1500, were not to be found.

Thoughtful parents are finding out that a child's strongest hold on future success and usefulness is a strong body and healthy brain.

them with people who would cease to be a drain upon the food supplies of the temperate zones and become, on the contrary, contributors thereto. Tropical swamps may be drained, tropical deserts irrigated, tropical jungles tamed, and millions of acres of the richest land on earth added to the productive areas which feed and clothe the world.

"And what benefits these times must bring to the race! New blood in the tropics is needed. The suns of centuries have burned out much of the initiative, the easy methods of gaining a livelihood have taken out much of the thrift, and the lazy ways of the tropics have eliminated much of the natural love of cleanliness of the people."

The National Geographic society has taken a prominent part in these disease-destroying campaigns. The microphotographs of the deadly house-fly, which this organization scattered broadcast a few years ago, gave the first impetus to the fly-swarming fights that have since been waged all over the world.

FELL OVERBOARD

3 Year Old Boy Dropped Into Boston Harbor and Was Drowned

BOSTON, April 12.—While playing for his five-year-old brother, Jerry, on the lumber pier opposite 370 Albany street, South End, yesterday afternoon, three-year-old Sylvester DeNutte fell overboard and was drowned. He had left their home at 47 Rose street a few minutes before to buy street candy with a few pennies given them by their father, Emil DeNutte, when Jerry returned crying bitterly and bearing the sad tidings to the parents.

The father rushed for the waterfront and Sergt. Mullen, with a squad of police, was soon on the scene with grappling irons from the Dedham street station, and in boats, dragged the South Bay in the vicinity. The harbor police also joined in the search but up to a late hour last night the body had not been recovered. They will renew their efforts today.

Mr. and Mrs. DeNutte have recently moved to Rose street, coming here from Manchester, N. H. They are a young couple and have a third child, Albert, scarcely a year old.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

CAKE OF ICE UPON WHICH THEY WERE PADDLING ABOUT IN THE STREAM CRUMBLLED

PORTLAND, Me., April 12.—Joseph Duffy, aged 12, son of John Duffy, and Raymond Hackett, aged 12, son of Daniel Hackett, both of South-Portland, were drowned in Fort river yesterday afternoon when a cake of ice upon which they were paddling about in the stream crumbled beneath them.

The Duffy and Hackett boys, and Henry Benson, a playmate of about the same age, started out to cross the river on the floating ice and when it broke all were thrown into the water.

The Benson boy swam ashore, but although Duffy and Hackett could both swim they were overcome by the cold before they reached shore. Eddie Hackett, a brother of the drowned boy, tried to rescue his brother and was found unconscious beside him some distance down the river.

17,500,000 GO TO SCHOOL

Census Reports 24,000,000 of School Age But Bad Roads Kept Many From Attending

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 12.—Census reports show that in 1902 there were 21,000,000 children in the United States of school age, but that only 17,500,000 were enrolled in the schools. This would indicate that there are several million children who are deprived, for one reason or another, from obtaining an education, and there is no doubt that a large number of these are prevented from attending school on account of bad roads.

Furthermore, many schools in the country districts are closed for varying periods on account of the impassable condition of the roads, and many of the schools which are not closed have a nominal percentage of attendance.

While it is true that various factors contribute to increase or decrease the attendance at schools in given sections of the country, it is worthy of comment that in the states having a high percentage of improved roads, a much larger percentage of the students enrolled, regularly attend the schools than in the states having a small percentage of improved roads. In five eastern and western states which have a large mileage of improved roads, the average attendance of enrolled pupils in 1902-3 was 80 per cent; while in four southern states and one northwestern state which are noted for bad roads, the average attendance for the same year was 64 per cent—80 per cent in the good road states as against 64 per cent in the bad road states. In 10 states first named, 35 per cent of the roads have been improved, while in the latter group of states there are only 1 1/2 per cent of the roads improved.

For instance, since the improvement of the main highways in Durham county, North Carolina, the number of schoolhouses have been reduced from 55 to 42, of which 17 are graded and have two or more rooms, and employ two or more teachers.

There are at the present time about 2000 consolidated rural schools in the United States. It appears that Massachusetts, Ohio and Indiana have made the greatest progress along these lines, and it is rather significant to note that in these states about one-third of the roads have been improved. According to statistics of the agricultural department, there was expended in 1890, $22,116 in Massachusetts for the conveyance of pupils to consolidated schools, but in 1908 the expenditure for this purpose amounted to $292,213. EASTER IN THE CHURCHES THE FESTIVAL OF EASTER

Impressive and Joyous Services Observed With Special Musical in Catholic Churches—Sermons Services, Decorations and Sermons at Protestant Churches on the Resurrection

Yesterday was a day of rejoicing in the Catholic churches, for it marked the Easter festival, the most important feast on the Catholic calendar. The churches throughout the city were elaborately decorated for the occasion and special services were held, carried out by the various choirs and sermons on the resurrection of Christ were delivered in all the temples. The weather was ideal and the result was that the congregations at the parish masses in the different churches were much greater than on regular Sundays. In the evening solemn vespers were sung and these services were also largely attended.

St. Patrick's
St. Patrick's church presented a very brilliant appearance yesterday with its handsome decorations, consisting of potted plants and greenery, while hundreds of lighted candles and incense-burners brilliantly illuminated the altar. Easter lilies were also much in evidence. The parish mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock, the celebrant being Rev. Timothy Callahan, assisted by Rev. John J. Kerrigan as deacon and Rev. Joseph A. Curran as sub-deacon. Rt. Rev. Mgr. William O'Brien, P. R. was present in the sanctuary. The sermon, an eloquent effort on the "Resurrection" was delivered by Rev. Fr. Kerrigan.

In the evening solemn vespers were sung and again a large congregation filled the church. The musical program for both services was unusually elaborate and well rendered under the direction of Michael J. Johnson, who also presided at the organ. The soloists were Miss Alice Murphy, Mrs. James Morris, Andrew McCarthy and James J. McNabb.

Immaculate Conception
At the Immaculate Conception church St. John's mass was sung by the choir at the 11 o'clock mass, which was a solemn service, the celebrant being Rev. John C. Duffy, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Patrick J. Phelan, O. M. I., and Rev. John O'Brien, O. M. I., as deacon and sub-deacon, respectively. The musical program was very elaborate and was exceptionally well rendered under the direction of Joseph P. Courtney, Mrs. Hugh Walker presiding at the organ. The preacher was the pastor, Rev. Lawrence E. Tighe, O. M. I., who spoke on the gospel of the day, contrasting the brightness and hope of Easter day with the gloom and sorrow of the past week. A feature of the music at the 11 o'clock mass was the Easter carols sung by the sanctuary choir. There was no music at the 10 o'clock mass.

The decorations on the altars were brilliant and very handsome. Flowers including Easter lilies were much in evidence, while hundreds of small lights brilliantly ornamented the sanctuary.

St. Peter's
With unusual splendor and great impressiveness the feast of the resurrection was observed at St. Peter's church yesterday. The altars were prettily decorated with vari-colored carnations, sweet peas, wisteria and with Easter and calla lilies predominating. The principal service of the day was the parish mass, which was celebrated at 11 o'clock, the celebrant being Rev. Charles E. Donahue, assisted by Rev. Daniel J. Jefferson as deacon and Rev. Francis Farrell, master of ceremonies. Rev. Dr. D. J. Keleher preached the sermon and spoke briefly on the glorious and triumphant resurrection of Christ, drawing many valuable and inspiring lessons from it, and urging the faithful to follow the lead of a Catholic life so that they, too, may share gloriously and immortal on the last day. The church choir under the direction of Miss Caroline White, organist, sang the program as previously published, the soloists being Miss Gertrude Keleher, Miss Vera McArdle, Harry Hopkins and James E. Donnelly. James Barnes sang a beautiful "Ave Maria" at the offertory. The vespers services were held at 7 o'clock and were also largely attended.

Sacred Heart
The celebrant of the parish mass at the Sacred Heart church, which was at 11 o'clock, was Rev. Edmund Strauss, O. M. I., of the Tewksbury novitiate, and he was assisted by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. The altars of the church were artistically decorated with Easter lilies and potted plants. The entrances to the main altar from the vestry were hung with rich green curtains, above them falling mistletoe. In the sanctuary were placed large bay trees, and numerous Easter lilies, while the main altar was surrounded with greenery and flowers of the season. Large lilies were also placed on the large pillars throughout the auditorium, and the hundreds of incense-burners and lighted candles of incense-burners were one of rare beauty.

Preceding the mass, professional hymns were sung as the officers of the mass and their assistants marched through the aisles of the church. At the close of the mass, too, a procession was held. The sermon on the gospel of the day was given by the pastor, Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., who spoke briefly on the great feast. He also referred to the nature of the music sung and said it told the wonderful story of the resurrection of Christ. The choir, composed of 40 voices, in the sanctuary choir, and assisted by the direction of Rev. James P. McDermott, O. M. I., rendered an elaborate program which was very fitting to the occasion. The vespers services in the evening were also very largely attended and they were a fitting close to the day of festivities.

St. Michael's
Both services at St. Michael's church yesterday were unusually elaborate. The parish mass was celebrated at 10:45 o'clock by Rev. Francis J. Mullin, the deacon and sub-deacon being Rev. Dennis A. Murphy and Rev. John J. Snow, respectively. Kallenda's mass in A was impressively sung by the choir under the direction of James A. Murphy with Miss Ella M. Kelly presiding at the organ. Rev. Dennis A. Murphy was the preacher and his subject was the gospel of the day. This largely attended.

sermon was an eloquent effort as were all the sermons by Fr. Murphy. The decorations about the church were handsome, especially on the main altar, which was literally covered with potted plants and flowers, numerous incense-burners and candles adding brilliancy to the general effect.

St. Margaret's
The cosy St. Margaret's church in Stevens street was yesterday the scene of a large gathering, especially at the parish mass which was celebrated at 10:45 o'clock by Rev. H. C. Heardon, who also delivered the sermon. The musical program at both morning and afternoon services was elaborate and was given by a powerful choir under the direction of Katherine V. Hennessey, M. E. McCarthy, William Burns, C. Conlon and H. Driscoll. The decorations were handsome and elaborate and greatly added to the joyous feast.

St. Columba's
Rev. Chas. Buckley was the celebrant of the parish mass at St. Columba's church yesterday morning, while the sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. John A. Degan. The decorations in the church were confined to the main altar, and were very elaborate, consisting of potted plants and flowers as well as numerous lights. Rev. Fr. Degan officiated at the evening service, which was also largely attended.

Notre Dame de Lourdes
The decorations at Notre Dame de Lourdes church in Branch street yesterday consisted of blue, white and yellow streamers suspended from the ceiling to the interior of the church, caught up in the center in an attractive manner. The altars were literally covered with flowers and potted plants, Easter lilies predominating. The parish mass, which was celebrated at 10:30 o'clock, was largely attended, and the celebrant was Rev. Joseph M. Magan, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Bro. Lofius, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Bro. Mahan, O. M. I., as sub-deacon, both of the Tewksbury novitiate. The sermon, an eloquent one on the "Resurrection," was preached by Rev. J. B. A. Barrette, O. M. I. The choir under the direction of H. A. Rucicot rendered Gounod's "Harmonized Easter Mass." Miss Della Lefevre presiding at the organ. Rev. Fr. Magan, O. M. I., officiated at the evening service which was also largely attended.

St. Louis
The musical program at St. Louis church in Boisvert street, West Centralville, was very elaborate. Hirs's orchestra was in attendance and greatly added to the beauty of the service. The choir under the direction of Oliver J. Davin rendered Turner's "Easter Song" in a most pleasing manner, the solo being sustained by Misses E. Dupuis, Bernadette Fontaine, Glencene Simard and Aroline Brunelle, Jules Morissette, Edouard Desrosiers, Isidore Michaud, Ugele Favreau and O. J. David. The celebrant of the mass was the pastor, Rev. J. B. Labossiere, assisted by Rev. Fr. Augustin O'Brien, O. M. I., as deacon and sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Conrad, the Capuchin monk missionary, who is now conducting the annual mission at the church. Owing to the fact that the mission is being conducted at the church, the vespers services were omitted, and in the afternoon the married women's retreat was brought to a close with appropriate exercises. In the evening the unmarried women's mission was started with Fr. Conrad as the preacher. Services will be held every morning and evening this week.

St. Marie's
The feast of Easter was fittingly observed at the St. Marie's chapel in South Lowell. The celebrant of the parish mass was the pastor, Rev. Anthony J. O'M. I. The sermon was preached by Rev. Augustin O'Brien, O. M. I., who conducted the annual mission there last week. The choir under the direction of Armand Surprenant rendered appropriate music, and Mrs. Surprenant presided at the organ.

St. Anthony's
The altars at St. Anthony's yesterday were a mass of beautiful flowers and Easter lilies. Solemn pontifical mass was celebrated by Rt. Rev. Bishop de Silva, assisted by Rev. J. Boland, O. M. I., celebrant, Rev. Bro. Fallon, O. M. I., deacon, Rev. Bro. McDermott, O. M. I., sub-deacon. The music was of unusual excellence. The choir was under the direction of Miss Lulu Ghily, the organist, and assisted by Mr. Hannan and Mr. Gilmore, violinists, and Mr. Joseph Ghily, clarinetist.

In the evening solemn vespers were sung by Rev. Bishop de Silva, the celebrant, "Ave Verum" with violin obbligato, was sung by Miss Katharine Mullen and the "Tantum Ergo" by Mrs. Wilkins, Mr. Haley and Mr. Kane as trio. The soloists of the day were: Mrs. Wilkins, Mrs. Sheehan, Katharine Mullen, Mary Pleasance, Mary Santos, Messrs. Haley, Panton, Mahan, Salome.

St. Joseph's
St. Joseph's church, the old landmark of the French-American Catholics of this city, was again, yesterday, the scene of elaborate services. The gathering at the parish mass, which was celebrated at 10:30 o'clock, was exceedingly large, this being due mostly to the fact that there was no special service at St. Jean Baptiste church, which is now undergoing extensive changes. The high mass was celebrated by Rev. Eugene Turcotte, O. M. I., who was assisted by Rev. Brother Albert, O. M. I., as deacon, and Rev. Bro. Bachand, O. M. I., as sub-deacon, both of the Tewksbury novitiate. The sermon, a forceful one on the gospel of the day, was delivered by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Racette, O. M. I., P. R. The three altars of the church, particularly the main altar, were elaborately decorated with potted plants and flowers, while over the center of the sanctuary hung large streamers of Easter lilies. The numerous lights on the altars also greatly added to the beauty of the service. The choir, composed of 100 voices under the direction of Telephore Bada, rendered the music, Rev. J. A. Bernard presiding at the organ. At the offertory a quartet composed of Mrs. Desjardins, Miss Stella Latour, Arthur Perrault and Ernest J. Dupont sang "Ave Maria," added by the choir. The evening service was also elaborate and was the gospel of the day. This largely attended.

Elaborate Easter services were held in all the churches of Lowell yesterday. The ideal weather conditions drew out thousands of people who crowded the houses of worship. Augmented choirs rendered special musical programs and sermons on the resurrection were preached by the several pastors. Altars and pulpits were decorated with lilies and other flowers.

FELL DOWN STAIRS DIED SOON AFTER

Fatal Accident to Octave Gendreau at Home of Daughter on Third St. — Died at St. John's Hospital Soon After

Octave Gendreau, aged 64 years, of 16 West Third street, died this morning at about 6.30 o'clock at St. John's hospital from a fractured skull sustained last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. Lesage, 16 West Third street by falling down a flight of stairs.

Mr. Gendreau was talking with his daughter and other members of the family in the sitting room of her home last evening and suddenly got up and stated that he would take a little walk and return in a few minutes. A few seconds after he left the room, his daughter heard a noise and hastened to the front stairs where he was lying, apparently in an unconscious condition. With the help of some of the neighbors the man was brought up-stairs and placed in a bedroom and Dr. Lathrop was summoned.

The doctor gave him medical treatment and left the house, stating that he would return later. At about 5 o'clock this morning it was found that the man was suffering from serious injuries, and the ambulance was sent for to take him to St. John's hospital where he died about an hour later. Medical Examiner Meigs viewed the body this forenoon and stated that death was due to a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Gendreau was an operative in the Massachusetts mills and lived with his daughter at 16 West Third street. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. J. Lesage, Mrs. A. Maguin, Mrs. Albertine McNulty and Mrs. C. Ryan. The body was removed to the home of the man's wife, Mrs. J. Lesage, 16 West Third street.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

Little Mary Pickford, the most popular and highest salaried motion picture actress in the world, who recently returned to the screen under the direction of the Famous Players Film company, after a great stage triumph in David Belasco's "A Good Little Devil," will be presented in the Famous Players production of "Hearts Adrift," a romance of tangled lives, at the Opera House today and tomorrow. Her characterizations in "Caprice" and in "The Bishop's Carriage" have been qualified by critics as the most brilliant efforts of her phenomenal career, but the role which she portrays in "Hearts Adrift" gives her even wider scope for dramatic expression and character delineation. "Hearts Adrift" is a drama of the shifting sands of time and surging, changing tides of life, an epic of the sea with deep human undercurrents.

"Hearts Adrift" was produced at the Los Angeles studio of the Famous Players, under the skillful direction of Edwin S. Porter, who is known as the father of the picture play, having produced the first dramatic story motion picture. Mary Pickford directed by Edwin S. Porter in a subject produced by the Famous Players Film Co. requires no further endorsement of being a success.

"PEG O' MY HEART"

At last Lowell is to see "Peg O' My Heart" the play in which Laurette Taylor has broken all records for consecutive performances at the Cort theatre, New York. This exciting and wholesome comedy from the pen of J. Hartley Manners will be seen here on next Wednesday evening, April 15th, at the Opera House under the management of Oliver Morosco. Those who have seen Taylor in New York have been fortunate enough to obtain seats to see "Peg," will be the greatest boosters of the play in every town where the touring company goes, for it is not at all exceptional for New Yorkers to see the show four or five times.

Comedy is so refreshing, so brimming with the joy of right living and thinking and the whole done up in such an irresistible Irish wrapper that a second visit but enhances the impression of the first.

D. E. KEITH'S THEATRE

One of the most thrilling of melodramatic sketches in "Flashlight Graig," which will be played by C. H. O'Donnell & Co. at the D. E. Keith theatre this week. With a splendid cast this sterling piece will be presented. It offers an unusual theme of police work and shows a police sleuth, who, the first time in his life, is undecided as to which course to follow, the path of love or duty. Things break right over him and he is enabled to pursue one without influencing his course in the other. "Flashlight" was the title given to a New York detective, who had unerring judgment as to the features of a person. Once a crook had been seen by him "Flashlight" never forgot him. The reason for this was that he had been considered invaluable at police headquarters. The particular case to which he was assigned and which nearly brought about his undoing was that where a 17-year-old boy shot down another youngster in a saloon brawl. "Flashlight" went to the home of the young man who had done the shooting and arrested the assailant just as he was about to leave the police. Now "Flashlight" had never seen the detective before, nor had the detective ever seen him, yet the man of unerring memory called the chap by name. That was the last straw and a complete confession was forthcoming. "It appears that earlier in life 'Flashlight' had had a love affair. It was on the verge of a marriage when the woman deserted him and married another. She had been the chief support of an invalid sister, and the sister had urged her to give up the policeman and turn to a man of means and position. This she did, but the money of her husband was squandered; he died and she was left a squalor. So, when 'Flashlight' next met her she was the mother of a boy who had become mixed up in a saloon brawl. Now this mother pleaded with the detective to save her son, to save herself the ignominy of having her boy sent to prison. 'Flashlight' saw the plain path of duty lying before him, and yet his love for the woman surged up again in his breast. It developed that the man who had been shot was but slightly injured. This lessened the gravity of the case against the boy, and so 'Flashlight' was enabled to have him released on bail. It also gave the big detective a chance to resume a courtship he had started 18 years previously. In the presenting, besides Mr. O'Donnell, who plays the part of the detective, are Miss Annie Radcliffe, as the mother, Miss Pauline Roma, as a friend, and Addison Dolen, as the boy. The four entertainers, men of much experience in music, singing, dancing and comedy, will prove of sterling worth. They are particularly apt in dancing, and with the rich settings and costumes of the act should make a pronounced hit.

Misses Letzel and Jeannette in "Wonders of the Air" have a real surprise to offer. They are comely and their act is one of great originality.

Audiences will marvel at the unusualness of it.

Devine and Williams offer a comedy sketch, which has musical and terpsichorean attachments and Frank Markley is the best known banjoist in vau-deville today. Knight and Mack are comedy acrobats, who were formerly featured in the act of Spissel Brothers and Mack. The Pathe pictures will feature the "Pathe" pictures for all performances may be obtained at the box office in advance. Phone 28.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

It is with anticipations of pleasure that patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre await the grand reopening of the playhouse this week in one of the best comedies of a generation, "The Man on the Box," a four-act extravaganza from Harold McGrath's book by the same name. Judging from the advance sale of seats the coming engagement promises to be one of the most successful of the season for a grand welcome to the old favorites are planned for tonight. Seats are now on sale for all this week. Telephone 2653 and order your favorite location. It costs no more. Prices, matinee 20 cents; 10 cents each, reserved seats 50 cents; nights, 600 seats at 10 cents, reserved at 15 cents. The cast will include many familiar faces and several new ones. The piece will be elaborately staged.

"THE OWL THEATRE"

Ever since the beginning of the motion picture art, it has been the dream of studios to have Sarah Bernhardt for a subject. For years she resisted all entreaties and immense amounts of gold—she consented only when convinced that the production would be worthy of her glorious self—and the result has been the picture play of "Camille," her greatest character, which will be shown at the Owl today, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings.

Bernhardt herself was startled when she witnessed the result of her posing. The tense and sharply cut situations of "Camille" were shown in a vividness that was remarkable, and she was delighted with it. She is 67 years of age, but her power is unimpaired, as will readily be seen from the spirit, vivacity and fire she displays, the grace of movement, the graphic facial expressiveness, eloquence of gesture, the deep and sweeping dramatic power and length of her wonderful personality. These pictures have never been shown before at this price, and we doubt if she will again visit this country. This is really the chance of the season, and no one can afford to miss this longed-for treat.

As a fitting companion to Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt's play, the pictures of Mrs. Gabrielle Rejane's "Madame Sans-Gene" has been also engaged, completing the finest program of pictures ever exposed to the Lowell public.

Other pictures have been engaged to be shown on these days, and everything is in readiness for the biggest picture show ever produced in one performance.

COLONIAL THEATRE

Sometime ago the management of the Colonial theatre learned that the Imperator Film company was working on a production, "Life's Temptations," that they intended to be the best they ever had put out, and an effort was at once made to book it for the very earliest showing. Friday of this last week Mr. Knopf of the Colonial was notified that the play was ready and that it produced at the Colonial as soon as possible so that they might see the picture shown under the best moving picture conditions and it therefore was booked for today and tomorrow.

The picture is one of wonderful sensational acting and from the first reel where a big ocean liner is wrecked until the end of the fourth, where the hero saves his own child from a burning coal mine, there is not one moment when the audience loses interest.

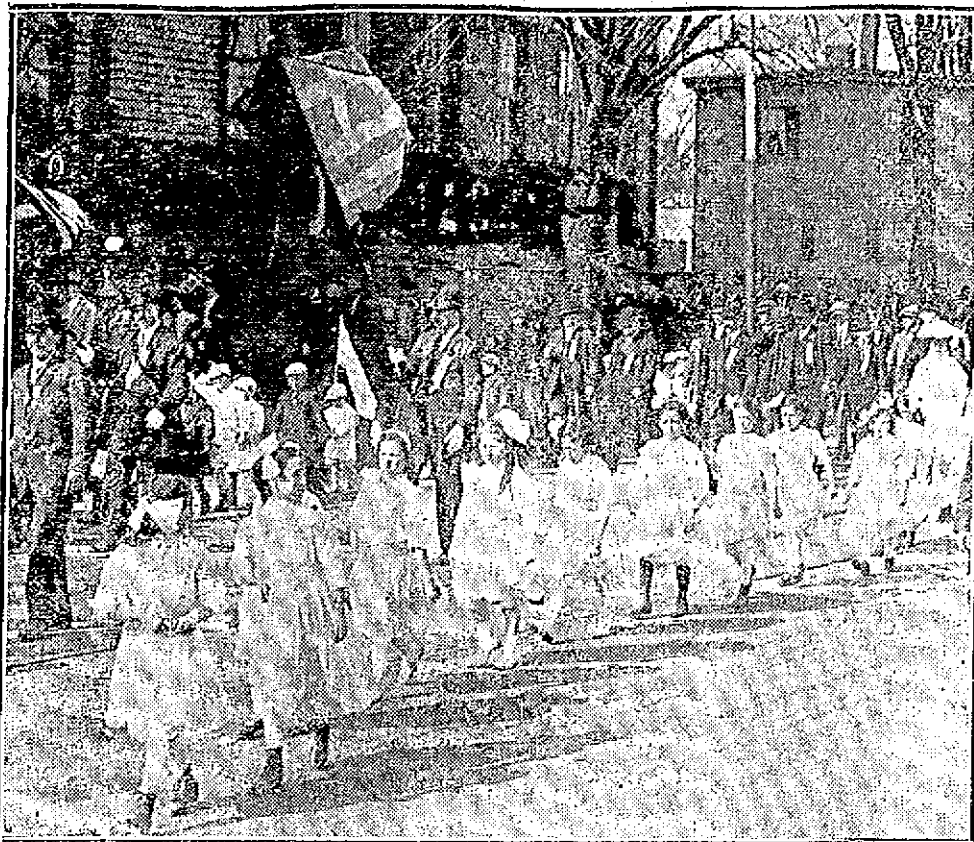

Another feature will be Lubin's "In the Gambler's Web," and no words of praise need be written of it, for everyone knows of the perfection of the works of the Lubin studio.

Other photo-plays shown will be productions of the biograph, Edison and Selig companies. Miss Margaret McDonough will continue as soloist.

THE KASINO

Cities and towns along the Merrimack valley will be well represented at the Kasino tonight, when the dancing season will be formally inaugurated. Messrs. Edward T. Cushing and Charles Banker, the proprietors, have spared no expense in their plans for the initial party, and the great resort will present a wealth of color and scenic animation when the orchestra by the way is to be a feature of the Kasino, as it always has been. Mr. Almer, well and favorably known as a conductor, is taking a keen interest in the Kasino's plans, and patrons are assured the best that money can produce. The pleasure of dancing centers on the music, and the Kasino intends to entertain, not only with good music but with concert programs of unusual merit. The floor has been placed in condition and is now one of the smoothest surfaces in Massachusetts. Sessions are to be held every night and on Saturday afternoon.

Five thousand Greeks, including delegations from Manchester, Nashua, Lawrence, Haverhill and New Bedford, yesterday did honor to the veterans of the Holy regiment who had fought throughout the Balkan-Turkish and Greco-Bulgarian wars. They celebrated, too, the 23rd anniversary of the independence of the Hellenic nation and observed the feast of Palm Sunday. Services in the orthodox church and a parade in which the veterans were the principals featured the occasion.

The parade was the most spectacular of its kind that ever passed through the streets of Lowell. Line after line of the young and middle-aged men who had left employment, home and family to fight for the fatherland, the veterans marched along with the same precision as they had marched against the Turks at Adrianople and against the Bulgars at Kilikish. But instead of being greeted by shriels and musketry this time they received cheers and smiles and hand clapping from wives and mothers and brothers and sisters and friends who had gathered by thousands to do them honor. The officers of the three companies of veterans were: Peter Regopoulos, George Vlachakis, William Chryso, Charles Kouras, Peter Stannos, George Sarris, William Kampiras and L. Spyros.

Acting as honorary bodyguard a file of police, among them Officer Peter Tsafaras, led the long line of Greek soldiers. After the police marched the Sixth regiment band which stirred the air and the hearts of the spectators with Greek, American and other martial airs.

Following these came Pres. Harry Houpius and the directors of the Greek Orthodox community with Dr. John B. Gatsopoulos, the speaker of the day. Then followed the veterans. At their head floated the Star Spangled banner and the blue and white emblem of Greece. The flag bearers were James Couzoulos and Evangelos Christopoulos. The presence of the two flags seemed significant, for it seemed to say that the men who had crossed the ocean and the sea to fight for the country of their fathers would fight, too, for the land of their adoption. With the soldiers marched another regiment but it was not a fighting one. It was composed of their children and of their little sisters and brothers. The boys and girls were dressed in the national colors, blue and white, and presented a peaceful contrast to their war worn elders. Directing the children in the march were Miss Panagiotta Potakake and Demetrios Diasakos, the two teachers at the Greek parochial school. The little ones moved along in faultless style and evoked many a cheer as they waved the flag of their country and that of the country of their fathers. One little fellow in particular was the center of attention. He was dressed in the short skirt, gorgeous-bodices and tatty cap of the Evzones. Costas Caragionis is his name. Led by the Spindle City band, followed the Greek Holy regiment, commanded by Captain Costas Constantinides. Although having fought in practically every battle of the Turkish and Bulgarian wars the captain elected to march with the recruits of the new Holy regiment. Two hundred of these young men were in this band, and according to the captain, in line in the old country whenever their services are needed. The members of the Pan Hellenic union, with all present, completed the parade.

Veterans Wore Medals

It was to be noted as the veterans marched along that on each of their breasts hung a medal. This was a token of appreciation from the colony. At the religious services in the morning the medals had been pinned upon the soldiers by Harry Houpius, the president of the local Greeks. Translated into English the inscription follows:

"To the glorious heroes of the war of 1912-13, presented by the Greek colony of Lowell."

The scene was inspiring as each man stepped forward in answer to his name and with head erect and eyes shining received the little piece of ribbon and bit of medal which would show to his children and to his children's children that he had aided his country in one of the most crucial periods of her history. Previous to this ceremony the veterans had been met by the children of the parochial school where they had assembled on the North common and with waving palms and flags from the tiny hands had been brought in honor and triumph to the church.

The Religious Service

In the afternoon, previous to the parade, a religious service was held by Father Panagopoulos. The gathering in the church overflowed through the doors into the street. The balcony was packed with wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the veterans. Through the stained windows the rays of the sun shone upon the beautiful vestments of the priest, danced among the great chandelier pendant from the ceiling and with friendly smile, lit up the faces of the enthusiastic assembly. From a small choir arose the murmuring strains of Byzantine music that invested the scene with reverential solemnity. They shone, too, upon the intertwined flags of the United States and Greece and illumined the standard emblazoned with the legend "The remembrance of our Lowell boys who served in two wars." From a small choir arose murmuring strains of Byzantine music, investing the scene with reverential solemnity. The choristers sang hymns for those who are now buried among the battlefields of the Balkans and the priest prayed for the repose of their souls.

A Patriotic Address

Father Panagopoulos was the first speaker. In a few words he dwelt upon the meaning of the anniversary from a religious and a patriotic viewpoint. He then introduced the principal speaker, Dr. John B. Gatsopoulos. The doctor is an eloquent speaker. Time and time again during his impassioned address he was hailed by the applause of the people and by the band, at the entrance of the church, which would flood the air with strains from the Greek national anthem.

"Today is the 23rd anniversary of our independence, when our forefathers united together against the barbarous despotism of the Turks. Only a handful of them, they fought together by land and sea for seven consecutive years, succeeding after many bloody battles in establishing the kingdom of Greece, with the aid of the three powers, England, France and Russia. The brilliancy of their valorous achievements surprised the whole world, which was astonished to see a few thousand of Greeks shake the throne of the powerful sultan."

"Here today we are proud to say that we celebrate the independence in a far different condition. The Greeks of the present time have shown themselves in the battles of 1911 and 1913, against both Turks and Bulgarians, to be worthy sons of the immortal heroes of 1821. From all the corners of the civilized world the Greeks rushed to the call of the bugle to uphold the honor of the fatherland. The Hellenic soldiers of King Constantine fought brilliant battles, from Sarantapoli to Salonika, battling the white and blue banner in Salonika, the second greatest city of the Turkish empire, and giving freedom to their suffering brothers."

Prussians of Balkans

"But greater glory was awaiting them. Their former brothers in arms, the Bulgars, treacherously turned against them in a selfish effort to deprive them of the fruits of their hard earned victory. But the victory at Kilikish, the stronghold of the Bulgars, taken at the point of the bayonet, saved the whole nation and opened the eyes of blind Europe, showing to her that the Greeks, and only the Greeks, are the Prussians of the Balkans. But that was not all. The following days they captured 10,000 Bulgarians in the battles of Demihissal and Lahnana, and the pursuing of them from Salonika to the Bulgarian frontier, fighting the battles of Kresna and Doyungia. The Greek soldiers of the wars of 1912 and 1913 were immortalized just as surely as were those heroic forefathers who achieved independence in 1821."

300 strong. Your bravery and your great enthusiasm assisted in doubling the territory of the fatherland, and gave freedom to more than 2,000,000 oppressed brothers. The whole Greek nation is proud of you; we, as friends, are proud of you, and your glorious achievements will live down through the ages."

After leaving the Orthodox church on Lewis street the veterans and their escort marched through the following streets: Lewis to Market, Dutcher, Thorndike, Middlesex, Central, Merrimack, Cabot, Market and Suffolk streets, and thence to the church where after another brief service addresses the line was disbanded. Just as the head of the line was passing through Central street, an alarm fire was sounded, and at the junction of Prescott and Central streets a paratus cut the parade into pieces. There was a number of narrow escapes, particularly among the little school children. It was at this time while turning from Central street that District Chief Sullivan met a mishap, the facts of which are told in another column.

JOHN ROCHETTE, DIVER OUT AT SPALDING PARK

Twelve Ball Players on the Job Today—Dinner Today Will be Served in Dressing Rooms

Twelve players were on hand this morning when Manager Jimmy Gray entered the baseball headquarters at the Hildreth building and each one was all ready for the first day's work-out at Spalding park. Eleven of them reported yesterday and Freyer put in an appearance early this morning.

Taking them all in all it's a likely-looking crowd of ball players that compose Jimmy Gray's advance guard for the coming season. Out of the 12 men who have reported not an outfielder has put in an appearance, but candidates for all the other positions are on hand.

The only catcher to report this morning is Barry, the Quins boy who will receive a thorough tryout under the local manager. He comes here strongly recommended and although he is up against a tough proposition for a youngster he is expected to give a classy account of himself.

Four Pitchers
Four twirlers are already up on the trail of a Lowell uniform. "Stenks" Lohman, the Texas heaver whom so much has been said, is here as strong as you please with all the confidence in the world. By that we don't mean to state that his confidence has any relationship to the "Henderson style" for Lohman is a very quiet fellow and seldom does much talking unless urged to display his soft southern drawl.

Lohman looks as healthy as the plains upon which he was reared. Brown as a berry with the free swinging arm of a man who knows how to handle himself, the big Texan will surely make a picturesque figure on the diamond at Spalding park. He's the only real Texan covey in the league.

Pete Wood Fit
Pete Wood, brother of "Smoky Joe," is right on the job again. Pete has been out on the family's western ranch all winter and is in fine shape. The twirler can vouch for Pete's fitness for the big pitcher "wound up" a fast one for his benefit in the baseball office yesterday afternoon. If he can only find the plate this year Wood ought to be one of the best youngsters in the league.

Shenk and Banks are the other two pitchers who were on time. Shank is the man recommended by Eddie Miller and he hails from the same town as last year's second baseman. He is a big fellow and shapes up almost as large as does Banks.

Kelly and Simmons
The two big first basemen, Kelly and Simmons, are with us. Simmons got in yesterday morning, but Kelly did not show up until last night. Both are youngsters and both have the appearance of being hard, aggressive ball players. It will be a big surprise to the writer if one of them at least does not turn out to be a mighty good ball player.

and Simmons are with us. Simmons got in yesterday morning, but Kelly did not show up until last night. Both are youngsters and both have the appearance of being hard, aggressive ball players. It will be a big surprise to the writer if one of them at least does not turn out to be a mighty good ball player.

Burke's Day
But Burke's the little man for you to watch. Mr. Burke, erstwhile of the Louisville and Wichita clubs. He's a trifle shorter, perhaps, than Pete Clemens and is of the same style build, although heavier.

Burke is only a youngster. He has only played pro ball four years. But those four years have been very profitably spent, we think. He is built for speed, but there is a wary look about him which vouches for his endurance as well. Burke was in more than 130 games last season. He played the majority of them at third base, but also held down the pivot point and closed files in the outer gardens as well.

Waycob Expected Soon
"Waycob will be here anytime," said Burke to the Sun scribe, "and you'll see the greatest little catcher you ever clapped your eyes on when he does arrive. He can throw, but field his position and run bases like a major and, believe me, you'll only have him one year." By which statement we judge that Burke expects Waycob to break into the big show this season. It will be quite a record for Jimmy Gray if he sends two catchers into last company in as many years.

Another Avillite
Speraw is an infielder. He, like Shenk, was recommended to the club by Eddie Miller and comes from Eddie's home village. Carr is the only third baseman, although Speraw may be tried out later for this position. Garvey, a boy from Scranton, Pa., and Freyer are the other two infielders to report. Garvey arrived last night and Freyer got here just in time to journey out to Spalding park on the 10.15 car.

At Park All Day
The players will be kept at Spalding park all day. Manager Gray made arrangements with a caterer and their lunches were taken to the dressing room at the park where the gas-heated ovens made everything cozy after their morning's workout. More ball players are expected before night and tomorrow morning will probably see the majority of them in uniform.

JOHN ROCHETTE AND HIS DARING ACT

Lowell Man Has Made Big Sensation as High Diver—Is Now Making Ready for Long Tour

John B. Rochette, of 229 Moody street, who has made a success during the last three years by performing many daring feats on the amusement stage and who is well known at present as one of the country's most noted high divers, will soon leave Lowell for an extended tour of the southern and middle eastern states and Canada. Mr. Rochette will put on his high diving act with the Captain Ferreri exposition shows, with whom he has signed a 25-week contract.

Mr. Rochette's newest act is a thriller and is the mainstay of whatever company he travels with. Whatever the nervous athlete undergoes a few weeks ago, he has made a balancing act and closes his performance with a dive from this height into a water tank, only four feet deep. Twice a day throughout the length of his contracts the nervous athlete throws himself through the air in his death-defying plunge.

This act and the performer are well known in the cities of many states for Mr. Rochette has been traveling at one week stands for over a year. The act, however, has recently undergone a few changes which make it much more attractive and at the same time more dangerous. The height has been made fifteen feet greater than before and the depth of the tank has been lessened by a foot.

The Lowell athlete was responsible for an important discovery in medical science. When the company with which he was traveling stopped at Harrison, Ohio, last year a group of physicians at that place asked permission to perform a heart test on the high diver, which was granted.

His heart action was taken by one of the specialists just before he had leaped off the high platform and another physician applied a machine for taking the heart beats a few moments after he had landed in the small tank, after he had landed in the small tank, after he had landed in the small tank.

The medical men wanted to know just what effect a fall from a great height had upon the heart. It was found that the heart action was greatly strengthened by the fall. Rochette's name, in this connection, was published as the medium for the discovery.

In his several years of experience with daring stunts of most every sort Rochette has had many narrow escapes from death. On Thanksgiving day, 1912, he leaped into the tank from his usual height at Muskegon, Mich., and came very near ending his career.

The men who constructed his tank at this city had not used the proper sort of material in its construction and the tank was not strong enough to withstand the terrific strain placed upon it when the high diver landed in the water. The hoops surrounding the tank snapped as soon as he struck the surface of the water and the boarding fell apart. The crowd rushed over, expecting to find a dead man, but Rochette, beyond being stunned a trifle, experienced no bad results from the accident.

At another time he performed his hair-raising act at Blahopville, S. C., in a gale of wind. Divers as a rule will not tinkle an act of this nature, even from a far lesser height, on a day when there is any wind but the local athlete did not want to disappoint the crowd and decided to make the plunge. The effect of the wind upon the diver, of course, is to sweep him from

THE MIDDLESEX CARMEN

DISCUSS ADVANCE IN WAGE SCALE BEFORE ARBITRATION BOARD

NEWTON, April 13.—A number of motormen and conductors were called to the stand today at the hearing of the Middlesex and Boston street railway men in the aldermanic chamber of the Newton city hall.

The men claim that they cannot live on the present scale of wages of 21 to 27 cents an hour, and demand a rate of 27 to 33 cents. The Middlesex & Boston company, however, cannot see the way clear to give the men the increase, but rather than have a general strike of the 300 employees, decided to have the arbitration meeting.

James B. Vaher, appears for the carmen, while Arthur H. Bellantini represents the company. The third man on the arbitration board is ex-Mayor George L. Mayberry of Waltham.

THOUSANDS AT ZOO

Over 75,000 Visit Animals at Franklin Park on Easter Sunday, According to Estimate

BOSTON, April 13.—More than 75,000 people visited the Franklin Park Zoo Sunday, according to the estimate of Director Arthur B. Baker.

It was one of the largest crowds for a single day since the zoo was instituted. The throng began to arrive before the doors of the bird and animal houses were opened at 8.30.

In the early afternoon thousands were pouring through the avenues and across the greenward from one point of interest to another. Children formed a large part of the throng, and most of them went especially to see the latest additions to the zoo family, two double-humped camels.

DR. F. L. H. WILLIS IS DEAD
ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 13.—Dr. Frederick Llewellyn Willis, aged 55 years, died at the home of a daughter in this city yesterday. Dr. Willis was an intimate of Longfellow, Emerson, Hawthorne, Thoreau and the Alcott family. Louisa M. Alcott told Dr. Willis as the model of "Louie" in "Little Women."

Dr. Willis was also intimately connected with an attempt to found an aristocratic colony at Fruitlands by the New England literary coterie.

BIG STRIKE OFF

Copper Miners Out Since July 23 Vote to Return

HANCOCK, Mich., April 13.—The copper mine workers who have been on strike since July 23 last voted yesterday to call off the strike, according to an announcement made by Charles E. Nietela, district secretary of the Western Federation of Miners. The figures will not be given out until after a meeting of the district board this afternoon.

Recognition of the union, denied by the mining companies, is waived by the strikers in voting to return to work. They claim that practically all of their demands have been complied with since the strike began. These included better working conditions, an eight-hour day and a minimum daily wage of $3.

When the strike started the union claimed that about 13,000 men were out. Since that time many of these have returned to work and others have moved away from the copper district.

Many workmen were imported to take the strikers' places and it will be some time before the operators to place the men who now wish to resume work.

came first. "Gyp the Blood" (Harry Horowitz) was third, and "Lefty Louie" (Louis Rosenberg) last. In 40 minutes all four were despatched.

This time would have been shortened had it not been for the overcrowding of reporters. Their numbers necessitated a shifting of witnesses for each execution. There was no untoward incident throughout the procedure. All walked quietly to their doom and by their quaking knees and the sickly green pallor of their faces attested that the realization of death was upon them.

Rev. William E. Cashin, Roman Catholic chaplain of the prison, accompanied "Dago Frank" to the chair with "Whitely Lewis" and "Gyp the Blood" was Rabbi Joseph Goldstein of New York. Rabbi Mayer Kopstein, long the spiritual adviser of the Rosenberg family, stood by. Priest and rabbi alike averted their faces from the chair of death, meantime, struggling to control their choking utterances as they intoned a prayer for the dying.

"Gentlemen," said Rabbi Goldstein, "as he left the death chamber, 'If you ask whether the Jewish boys were guilty I will say I do not know. They did not confess to me. As for the Roman of the crime, I do not think any of them should have been convicted on the testimony offered."

A light moon still hung in the sky when those who were to witness the executions gathered in front of the prison. The air was chill and a raw wind swept across the Hudson, which house the prison at the west. Faint lights glimmered at the corridor ends of the building, but no sound came from within. The hideous noises which convicts have been said to emit when one or more of their number is to die, were spared those who waited.

Current Tested
The door of the death chamber closed behind the witnesses shortly after 5 o'clock. Warden Clancy had announced that "Gyp the Blood" would die first, followed by "Lefty Louie," "Dago Frank" and "Whitely Lewis," but as it transpired, the man who first came through the little iron door at the right was "Dago Frank." He had shown signs of collapse and it was deemed expedient to shield him from the ordeal of waiting.

State Electrician Davis carefully tested the electric current by sending it through a series of incandescent lights that glowed brilliantly on a board which lay across the stout arms of the electric chair.

Died With Prayers on Lips
"Two of these men have told me that they will make a statement," announced Warden Clancy, "and under no circumstances must anyone ask them any questions." The head and hair of the man who was to die first, Keoper McGinney, acting on a signal from the warden went to the death cell. There he found Croft in prayer with Fr. Cashin. The condemned man clutched a crucifix in each hand as he was led into the presence of death. He had to be supported by two men as he was taken to the cell.

When the death cell could be heard the number of the other prisoners in their supplications. The warden and attendants stepped back from the rubber mat.

"Oh God, I meet my God," gasped the Italian. The state electrician turned the switch.

First Man Died Easiest
The first contact was gradually reduced and then a second shock was given. The prison physicians, Dr. Farr and Dr. Mersemo with several other witnessing doctors applied the stethoscopes and made other tests for life.

"I pronounce this man dead," said Dr. Farr in a low voice. It was 5.43 o'clock. The group of witnesses left the death chamber and the body of "Dago Frank" was taken to the autopsy.

The physicians said the Italian had made little resistance to the current which had registered 1910 volts. Of the four he died the easiest. He had in fact made a statement but his mental processes were so failed him. A new lot of witnesses filed in.

"Whitely Lewis" Second to Die
Through the little door presently came "Whitely Lewis." He was garbed in a "Dago Frank" had been. The statement he never finished on his lips when he entered. A current of 1920 volts took his life after two contacts.

The switch was first closed at 5.47:30 and he was pronounced dead at 5.52.

"Gyp the Blood" Had Prayerbook
Again the chamber was emptied and again filed with witnesses. At 5.56 "Gyp the Blood" was brought in. He had a Jewish prayerbook in his left hand and Rabbi Goldstein walked by his side.

"Listen, Israel, there is only one God," murmured "Gyp" in Yiddish. His staring gaze greeted the spectators' faces but aside from the prayer he made no statement.

The preliminaries were quickly arranged, the current was applied. Two shocks were given and at 6.02 o'clock pronounced the man dead.

Three Contacts for "Lefty Louie"
"Lefty Louie," the last of the four to die, entered the chamber at 6.07. The first contact was given at 6.08, but it was not until 6.17 that he was pronounced dead. Three contacts were necessary.

The only relatives of the young men who were in the prison at the time of the execution were "Dago Frank's" mother, sister and brothers, John and Paul, and "Whitely Lewis's" brothers, Morris and Louis. Mrs. Croft was borne to her carriage in an almost collapse, an hour after the electrocution.

GUNMAN ARRESTED AND SENT TO JAIL

Lured Boys to His Room and Acted Strangely—Posed as Detective and Brandished Revolver in His Room

Officer Crowe walked into the middle of a large crowd at the corner of Central and Merrimack streets early last evening and laid his official hand upon a man who gave his name John Hill, erstwhile of New York and Philadelphia, if his own story is to be believed.

Earlier in the evening the man entered the police station and asserted in loud and certain terms that he was a real detective and had gained his experience in many of the country's largest cities. Hill said that he wanted a job on the local police force.

The next thing heard from him was when Officer Crowe interrupted a speech he was making at the junction of Merrimack and Central streets and which had attracted a large crowd.

It was learned later that Hill took three young men up to a room he had hired in a Merrimack street block under the pretense of showing them a few boxing lessons. His actions after they arrived in the room caused the three guests to pick up their coats and make for the door.

It was not Hill's intention, however, to have his company leave in this manner and he proceeded to pull out a revolver from a bureau drawer and waved it in the faces of the three young men. The matron of the building came in while Hill was pulling off his artillery act and ordered him to put down the gun or get out. Hill put down the gun and then went at one of his others with his fists.

When arrested he was searched but no revolver was found in his possession. Sergeant Ryan, however, later before he left his cell was to Father Cashin: "Take care of my mother," he admonished.

POLICE ARE RELIEVED

CHARGES AGAINST NASHUA OFFICERS WILL NOT BE PRESSED

NASHUA, April 13.—Counsel for Walter L. Ford, one of the ten policemen against whom charges were preferred yesterday, said that they had been notified by police commissioners that the case against Ford would not be pressed, owing to lack of available evidence.

This leaves two cases to be heard today—those of Michael H. Degnan and Edward Field.

The commissioners have no power to compel witnesses to attend a hearing, and notices sent by registered mail to citizens to appear are said to have been ignored.

While driving his car across Broadway on Fletcher street last Saturday afternoon, Chief Sargent narrowly escaped being run down by another automobile, but as both the chief and the driver of the other car were on the alert the accident was averted and no damage was done.

IN POLICE COURT

Non-Support Cases
Were Numerous at
Today's Session

The police court docket this morning showed a large number of defendants, the majority of them being drunks. Probation Officer Shattuck released no less than fifteen first offenders who were arrested Saturday.

Judge Pickman, who occupied the bench this morning in Judge Dingle's absence, ordered the release of four more first offenders. In all of these cases complaints had been made to the arresting officers but the complainants failed to materialize in police court.

Arrested Saturday afternoon released Saturday night and re-arrested Sunday afternoon is the history of John Cosak during the past two days. Cosak pleaded guilty to his third offense this morning. Cosak's wife was also a defendant on a drunkenness charge. It was the woman's first offense.

The family history was explained to the court by the arresting officer. Cosak has been abusing his wife and two children for a long time, the officer told Judge Pickman. Both mother and wife work during the day and the two children are cared for by the neighbors. The court released the wife on condition that she would stop drinking and provide for the children. The husband, however, was sent to jail for three months. He appealed and was held in the sum of $200.

William Gemin appeared for the second time within a year on a charge of drunkenness. Gemin was on probation but was released with a tax of $5. John Carver and Mike Caraboli were continued on their own recognizance on a charge of drunkenness. Their trial will be held tomorrow.

A Thorny Reputation

Rose Gagne pleaded guilty to being a lewd and wanton person and the facts in the case were presented to the court by the superintendent. The defendant comes from Salem and has only been in Lowell some two months. During this time her career has been anything but exemplary.

The police of Salem as well as the girls' folks were notified. The Gagne girl bears an unenviable character in the Witch City and is under a suspended sentence there to Sherborn.

Judge Pickman asked her if there was anything she wished to say before sentence was passed on her and she said that there was. She was sworn in and took the witness stand. The girl, who is only eighteen years of age, informed the court that there were several men in Lowell who were responsible for the life that she is leading and that she thought they should be apprehended and brought to justice as well as herself. Her case was continued until tomorrow morning in order to allow the police to investigate her story.

Non-Support Cases

Frank E. Rose, the young man arrested in Lowell last Saturday on a warrant gotten out here, pleaded guilty this morning to the non-support of his two small children. The young man's story was one of hard luck in finding a job which would support both himself and children.

Mrs. Barry, an old lady who has the children under her care, stated that she had not received the stipulated $5.00 per week from the defendant for the care of his children. Rose promised to send on this sum each week and to pay as much as possible on what is already due. This settlement seemed to be satisfactory to both parties.

A West Berlin non-support case was brought when Andrew Harrower pleaded not guilty to neglecting his wife's support. Charges and counter-charges were brought by the couple against each other.

After a lengthy hearing Judge Pickman found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay his wife $3.75 a week. Harrower took an appeal and the court changed its sentence to a $20 fine.

Andrew Langlois was also charged with the non-support of his young wife. Langlois admitted his guilt but appeared repentant and the case was held over for a month with the finding in the hope that husband and wife might reach some amicable compromise.

WANTED TO DIE

Woman Prevented from Jumping Into Hale's
Brook by Fireman

A young woman attempted suicide in Lincoln street between 8 and 8:30 o'clock last evening. She was prevented from jumping into Hale's brook from the Lincoln street bridge by a fireman from the Lincoln street fire house. The fireman noticed that the woman acted peculiarly and he walked as near her as possible without attracting attention. He was about 15 feet behind her when she attempted to jump from the bridge and he grabbed her. She fought desperately, saying that she wanted to die. A car was ordered and the woman was taken to her home. Names are withheld by request.

SIEGEL INVESTIGATION

Begun by Grand Jury in Boston
Today—Mrs. Diana Eddy Brown
a Witness

BOSTON, April 13.—An investigation to determine whether false returns of the financial condition of the Henry Siegel Co. of Boston had been made to the commissioner of corporations was begun by the grand jury today. The witnesses who reported to District Attorney Pelletier included Mrs. Diana Eddy Brown and a number of clerks formerly employed in the office of the company. Mrs. Henry Siegel and Joseph Siegel, an official of the company, were not present when the investigation opened, although it was said that Mr. Siegel would be on hand later in the day. Three witnesses had appeared before the grand jury when the noon recess was taken. Mrs. Diana Eddy Brown, James E. Lynch, chief clerk of the banking department and James W. Hall, a public auditor. Previous to appearing before the grand jury, Mrs. Brown was interviewed at length by Assistant District Attorney Lavette. It was stated at the office of the district attorney that the object of the investigation was to discover if any money had been received at the banking department after it was known that the bank superintendent proceedings were about to be begun.

FOR FISH AND GAME

Committee on Ways and Means
Recommends Big Cut—Lowell
Association is Interested

Members of the Lowell Fish and Game association and others interested in fishing and hunting will be sorry to learn that the legislative committee on ways and means has recommended only $127,940 for the department of fisheries and game.

Messrs. Field and Adams of the fish and game commission came to Lowell a few nights ago and addressed a meeting of the Lowell Fish and Game association. They did not anticipate at that time that the ways and means was going to recommend a deep cut in the appropriation and they talked very optimistically of the future.

In view of the big cut recommended by this committee the commission will appeal to the different fish and game associations to talk the matter over with their representatives and explain to them how necessary it is that the amounts asked for should be granted.

The cut recommended by the committee is a very decided one. It reduces, for example, the amount asked for printing, telegraph, telephone and other expenses incidental to running the office from $10,000 to $1,775, of which $2,000 has been expended for the first four months, leaving for the remainder of the fiscal year only $225.

For the items grouped under the enforcement of law it recommends $44,400, in place of $60,800 asked for and as compared with $72,355 appropriated in 1913. The amount recommended by the ways and means committee is $44,400 is insufficient even to provide for the present number of deputies. The salaries and expenses of the present 30 deputies require $51,000.

The $500 recommended by the committee is grossly inadequate for stock-keeping, for the purchase of thousands of miles of wire and broods. Included in the items which are wholly unprovided for is the care and maintenance of highways, as required in Section 12, Chapter 51, Revised Laws, and Section 51, Chapter 366, Acts of 1904. For that $180 had been asked for continuing work in developing food fish in public waters $3500 was asked, and for purchase and distribution of fish eggs birds and mammals $2000 was wanted. For transporting and distributing fish eggs and fry received from the federal bureau of fisheries $2500 was asked.

The Leopards Moth

The loss of the Harvard elms and the impending destruction of the large trees on Boston Common are directly attributable to the ravages of the leopard moth, an insect which elsewhere is kept under control by woodpeckers, and is a result of failure to protect the woodpeckers and provide suitable nesting sites for these useful birds. To check the broods of the elm leaf beetles, many thousands of dollars are usually expended in spraying operations. Until relatively few years ago this insect, though present, was controlled by birds. The chief enemy of this beetle is the cherry bird (Amphispiza cedrorum), one of the birds which is becoming rare in the neighborhood of cities. The older countries, notably England and Germany, successfully utilize both the wild and propagated birds as the natural checks to increase of such pests as the army worm, gypsy and brown-tail moths, et al., and in addition rear such a large annual crop of birds as to export more than $1,000,000 worth of hand-reared birds to be used as food, or as breeding stock for extending artificial propagation of such species.

The activities of the Massachusetts fish and game commission cover not alone the enforcement of laws relative to insectivorous and game birds, but also the enforcement of laws relative to the destruction of the forests. The farmers' fences and stone walls from damage by unthinking hunters; but on the more constructive side maintain hatcheries for propagating and distributing useful fish to the public waters, game and insectivorous birds to the owners, and in addition each year develop advanced methods and give actual vocational training to several young men in rearing fish and birds and administering hatcheries and game farms, maintain numerous reservations as safe keeping and breeding for useful birds and game mammals and seek to develop such important latent state assets as elms, quail, and other small fish, beds, the lobster and other fisheries, as a source of food and wealth to the people.

SALUTE AMERICAN FLAG

Federals Will Fire Salute at Tampico as Apology to Arrest of Marines—Lind at Washington

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Wilson told the cabinet today that a salute would be fired to the American flag by Mexican federals at Tampico as an apology for the recent arrest of American marines. The president spoke with such confidence that his hearers took it to imply that the point would be insisted upon.

"The salute will be fired," was Secretary Daniels' positive announcement today. He added that he did not consider the element of time an important one because of the difficulties of communication between Washington and Tampico.

ENVOY LIND RETURNS

WASHINGTON, April 13.—John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico returned to Washington today after an absence of several months. While he came for a rest after his long stay in a tropical climate he brought much information for conferences with the president and Secretary Bryan. The first of these took place at a luncheon with Mr. Bryan. Mr. Lind greeted inquirers by asking if it were true that Rear Admiral Mayo had been ordered to revoke his demand for the firing of a salute to the American colors at Tampico and when he was informed that Mr. Wilson had insisted that the salute be fired he smiled approvingly.

Mr. Lind said his plans were not definite and depended largely on his talks with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

He left Mexico at his own request, he said, because he needed rest and change. He intimated that he was ready to go back should any contingency arise requiring his return.

It is understood that Mr. Lind brings the president a good deal of information that has not been communicated in official telegrams, but that information in no affected the diplomatic status of affairs.

When Mr. Lind left Vera Cruz, Torreon had fallen, but the news was known to but a few people and those who essayed to spread it were promptly arrested.

Secretary Bryan was reticent to discuss the Tampico incident. He said he was in close correspondence with Charge O'Shaughnessy over Huerta's promised investigation, but would neither affirm or deny reports that Gen. Huerta had forbidden the salute demanded by Admiral Mayo. In some of the official circles it was suggested that if Huerta refused to permit the salute drastic action on the part of the United States might be necessary.

50 IMMIGRANTS EASTER FASHION

Landed at Local Depot Clear Sky and Warm This Morning—250 Held at Boston Sun Bring Out Record Crowd

Over 50 immigrants, bound for different mill towns in this state and New Hampshire, spent about an hour in the vicinity of the local railroad station this forenoon while waiting for their trains to convey them to their destination, and those who could speak English told of how they were forced to spend Easter aboard ship because the steamer upon which they were passengers docked too late Saturday night to permit them to be landed.

One of the men said that 250 immigrants, all passengers on the Hamburg-American line steamer Arcadia, bound for various points in New England were not allowed to land because health officials claimed that it was too late to examine all the passengers and so who said that they were to stay in Boston were examined and permitted to land. The medical examination was continued yesterday forenoon but the most were held until it was too late to catch a train to convey them to their destination. A great many of the immigrants were Russians and were on their way to Berlin and Lincoln, N. H., while a few boarded the train for Lawrence, they said today that the majority of them have friends or relatives in this country who sent them their fare to reach here so that they can secure work in the cotton mills and other factories. Some had been here before and gone back to visit their parents, while others were seeking America for the first time and seemed quite interested in the sights in the vicinity of the depot.

50 IMMIGRANTS EASTER FASHION

Landed at Local Depot Clear Sky and Warm This Morning—250 Held at Boston Sun Bring Out Record Crowd

The fashion display in the streets yesterday was quite brilliant. It was a perfect Easter. The warm sun, the clear sky and the air that had just enough tang to quicken the pulse brought out a record crowd for the annual array of spring fashions.

It was, as usual, essentially a woman's parade. All the newest creations of the modistes were in evidence. For the first time this season the full variety of bright colors that Dame Fashion allows were displayed. The breeze was strong enough to heighten the color of pretty cheeks, but not violent enough to cover them with the dust.

The men with conventional frock coats and tall hats gave the touch of sombre background that was needed to properly set off the gay gowns of their women-folk.

All the women were beautifully dressed. But the colors were so "loud" that those affected by such noise must have lost their hearing for a time. The lady of style looked as if she were an animated store form, who stepped from one of the store windows.

But it was her gown that made it certain her beauty should not be unseen. It was a vivid orange. Other women you may be sure took careful note of it. Several were heard to remark that not one woman in a thousand could wear it to advantage.

This young woman certainly could, and did. It was the newest mode, and it looked as if it had grown on her. (That's the phrase, isn't it?) A bunch of flowers of the same color decorated the front of the gown. More of them were used as trimmings for the hat. The breeze allowed just a glimpse of a pair of tiny gray pumps.

She was peach and orange combined.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

MAY ATTEND MILITARY INSTRUCTION CAMPS TO BE ESTABLISHED BY U. S. THIS SUMMER

According to an announcement made by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, student military instruction camps will be held in various points of the United States this summer, and all students 18 years of age or over, who are members of the graduating classes at high schools throughout the country, will be allowed to attend providing they pay the minimum cost for food, clothing and transportation.

The purpose of these camps is to prepare the young men of today for military work and as a great many are unable to afford this training as given in the various military schools and colleges, the secretary of war has decided to establish four students' military instruction camps in the coming summer. The camps will be open for about one month.

ALLEGED SECRET PROFITS

A. S. Bigelow Has Nearly Liquidated Judgment of $2,124,679 Against Him—Asks New Trial

BOSTON, April 13.—Albert S. Bigelow of Boston who has nearly liquidated a judgment of $2,124,679 against him obtained by the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company for alleged secret profits in the sale of the Old Dominion Copper Co., filed a petition in the supreme court today for a review of the case on the ground that important testimony had been withheld by the Old Dominion.

The litigation over the sale of the first Old Dominion company to the second company of the same name has extended over seven years and included appeals to the supreme court of the United States.

The original court charged that Bigelow and Leonard Lewinsohn of New York in the sale of the Old Dominion Mining company of Baltimore to the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company, received $3,250,000. This sum the court found was much more than the actual value of the properties sold.

Bigelow now says that while the suits were pending the officers of the Old Dominion copper mining and smelting company had ascertained that the value of the mining properties conveyed was more than $4,000,000.

During the past year Bigelow has paid $1,900,000 of the two million dollar judgment against him.

KEEP AUTOS OFF HIGHWAY

BILL FORBIDDING OPERATION OF AUTOS ON ISLAND OF NANTUCKET FAVORABLY REPORTED

BOSTON, April 13.—A bill for a referendum and with no penalty forbidding the operation of automobiles on the island of Nantucket, including the state highway, was favorably reported to the house today by the committee on towns with two dissenters. The town of Nantucket has forbidden the use of motor vehicles in the streets but its jurisdiction does not extend to the state highway between the town and the village of Siasconset. Taking advantage of this exception, C. F. Folger, with a United States mail car over the road and using a horse to haul the car from the steamboat wharf to the state highway. His appeal from criminal prosecution for operating his car in other parts of the island will be tried next summer. If the bill reported today becomes a law it will come up for acceptance at the next town meeting in February, 1915.

STORM BROKE MANY WINDOWS AND DISABLED PART OF ELECTRIC LIGHTING SYSTEM

MONTREAL, April 13.—A heavy fall of snow, a gale of wind and a temperature ten degrees below freezing made this one of the most unpleasant April days the province of Quebec ever has known. In this city the storm broke many windows and disabled part of the municipal electric lighting system.

GORHAM ST. SEWER MUST BE REBUILT

Commissioner Morse Makes a Survey of the Cave-in—Grade Crossing Hearing Friday—Other City Hall News

The excavation work in connection with the slumped sewer in Gorham street was begun this morning and Commissioner Morse allows that a considerable portion of the big sewer main extending from Appleton street to Winter street will have to be relaid. Mayor Murphy accompanied Commissioner Morse on a trip about the city this morning and the trip included a survey of the Gorham street job. The mayor has gone on record as saying that he would not vote for any more loans this year and Mr. Morse thinks that if it is necessary for him to rebuild any considerable portion of the big sewer main in Gorham street he will have to ask for another loan.

Putting in Edgestones
The street department has the season's work on edgestones. The work started in inland street this morning. There are about 1000 feet of edgestones to be laid there and when that job has been finished the edge stone gang will move to other streets.

The commissioner of streets and highways, Charlie Morse, is a pretty busy man. He works more hours than any member of the city government. As superintendent of the street, Charlie used to show up at the city studies at 6 o'clock in the morning and he is doing the same thing today. They do tell that some of Charlie's current lectures delivered at the stables, early mornings, are real gems. Mr. Morse was on hand bright and early this morning and ordered out the 14 water-pipe carts so conspicuous in the Lowell day parade. The car sprinklers were started April 1 and the carts were put into commission this morning.

Grade Crossing Matter
The next meeting of the special commission on grade crossings will be held in this city Friday, April 24. At this meeting or hearing which will be held in the forenoon, the city solicitor, through the engineer's office, will present a plan for the abolition of the Middlesex and Fletcher sts and Western avenue crossings, together with an estimate of the cost which, it is stated, will exceed $2,000,000. The hearing will be held at city hall and the Bay State street railway will be represented. The street railway company will have to pay its share when the cost is apportioned.

Pipe and Cement
Bids on 900 barrels of cement (for the street department) and 500 barrels for the sewer department will be opened in the purchasing agent's office Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Other bids to open at that time will include 500,000 bricks for the sewer department and a large quantity of sewer pipe.

Industrial Accident Board
The industrial accident board, it was announced today by the city messenger, will meet in the councilmanic chamber at city hall on Friday at 10:30 a. m. The notice received by the city messenger does not state what particular case the board will attend to, but simply asks that the board be allowed the use of the chamber.

Greenhalse School Contracts
The lands and buildings department, it appears, are experiencing more or less trouble with minor contracts at the Greenhalse school. It seems that considerable work has been done there that was not called for on the specifications and that, it is understood, is where the shoe pinches.

Built New Dwelling
Elizabeth M. Mitchell has been granted a permit at the office of Commissioner Donnelly for the erection of a fine dwelling at 45 Clark road. The building will be about 39 by 35 feet and will have 12 rooms, pantry, bath and reception hall. It will be two and one-half stories in height and the estimated cost is $7000.

Holidays and Vacations
The schools reopened today after the Easter holidays, and good attendances were reported all along the line. On Friday the schools will close till Tuesday, as Patriots day will be observed Monday. There was some discussion at city hall this morning relative to school holidays and vacations, and the beginning and ending of the school year. The book of rules of the school committee was consulted, and this is what it said:

The school year shall begin on the second Monday in September, and shall close on the Wednesday preceding the last Friday in June. In the grammar schools the final examinations shall be on the last Monday and Tuesday of the school year, and the graduation on the following Wednesday or Thursday as the sub-committee may direct.

Holidays and Vacations
The following holidays and vacations shall be granted: Columbus day, Thanksgiving day and the remainder of the week, the week which includes Christmas New Year's day, Washington's birthday, Good Friday, Patriots' day, Memorial day, the week following the last Saturday in April, and every Saturday. When any one of the above holidays, except New Year's day, falls upon Sunday, the following Monday shall be observed. The chairman may close the schools upon such public occasions as he may think proper, not exceeding three days in any one municipal year.

FUNERAL OF E. S. DRAPER

Impressive Services in King's Chapel Attended by Present and Former State and City Officials

BOSTON, April 13.—The funeral of ex-Governor Draper was held in historic King's chapel at noon today and was attended by present and former state and city officials and representatives of the many commercial and social organizations with which Mr. Draper was connected. Governor Pothier of Rhode Island, attended by his staff, was also present.

The services were conducted by Rev. Howard N. Brown, pastor and Rev. Sydney B. Snow, assistant pastor of the church and included scripture readings, prayers and two hymns that were favorites of the former governor.

The pallbearers were Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island, Frank J. Dutcher and Eben D. Bancroft of Hopedale, former Lieutenant Governor Louis A. Frothingham, John T. Burnett of Southboro, Col. William Schler, former Governor Guild, Henry Parkman, George H. Lyman and Charles B. Barnes of Lingham, all personal friends of Mr. Draper. At the conclusion of the services the family accompanied the remains to Hopedale, Mr. Draper's home town where a second service was to be held.

By request of Governor Walsh all departments at the state house were closed during the King's chapel exercises.

BURIED AT HOPEDALE
HOPEDALE, April 13.—The funeral train with the body of former Governor Draper, the family and close friends who attended the services in Boston rolled into the Hopedale station today to the accompaniment of the tolling of bells. The chiming of the memorial church played three hymns while the party passed between two long lines of employees of the Draper company to the church.

Rev. Fred R. Lewis, the pastor, read the scriptures and Rev. Lewis G. Wilson, secretary of the American Unitarian association, offered prayer and made a brief address.

The body was placed in one of the tombs and will subsequently be buried beside Mrs. Draper.

Among those who came from Boston were Governor Pothier of Rhode Island and three members of his staff.

CHILDREN AT CAPITAL

HUNDREDS OF YOUNGSTERS WERE GUESTS OF PRESIDENT—EGG ROLLING AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Wilson had as his guests today the children of the national capital. The occasion was the annual frolic and egg rolling in the White House grounds, rolling in the White House grounds.

From early today until dusk the little folk, with the freedom of the grounds accorded them, enjoyed the president's hospitality. President Wilson and members of the cabinet viewed the children at play.

Ideal weather favored the little guests and thousands of them gathered on the spacious lawns for the day's merry-making. The big folks were there, too. But the admissions were restricted to children and accom-

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN WAS PICKED UP ON TREMONT STREET, IN BOSTON

BOSTON, April 12.—An unidentified woman, well dressed and about 50 years of age, died at the Relief hospital yesterday afternoon, leaving, as the only clue to her identity, aside from general description, a gold band ring, inscribed "H. E. W. to C. A. W., Apr. 6, 1896."

She was found near 135 Tremont street, at 6:40 in the morning, and died at 2:20 p. m. without regaining consciousness. The cause of death was cerebral hemorrhage, according to the physicians. They found no marks of outward injury, and therefore decided that she had suffered no violence.

The woman was 5 feet, 7 inches tall, weighed 150 pounds, had black hair tinged with gray, and blue eyes. She wore a black tulle dress, blue felt hat with blue velvet band and brown quills, black shoes and stockings and brown fur mackintosh over a short black coat.

Lifeguards patrolled the beach opposite both vessels but the gale was too severe to permit the launching of a surfboat during the morning. It was believed that the barge would ride out the sale as the wind was moderating and working to the westward but the position of the bark with the gale blowing directly on the beach was regarded as precarious.

A wireless despatch was sent to the revenue cutter Gresham at Boston and she was expected to reach the bark about noon.

ARE WAGES PAID, SAYS MISS MARGARET FOLEY, TO WORKING WOMEN

BOSTON, April 12.—The extension of the ballot to the women of Massachusetts as a method of solving problems arising out of the low wages paid working women, was urged yesterday afternoon by Miss Margaret Foley, at a special meeting for stenographers, telephone operators and other workers, held in the suffrage headquarters, 555 Boylston street.

"Wages are paid according to sex, not according to merit," declared Miss Foley. "That it is a menace to working men to pay low wages to women is recognized by the American Federation of Labor, which endorses woman suffrage because it believes that universal suffrage, women will be able to secure higher wages from employers who will respect them when armed with the ballot. Mrs. Mary O'Sullivan also addressed the meeting."

BARGES IN DISTRESS SIGHTED OFF HIGHLAND LIGHT—BARK IN PRECARIOUS POSITION

HIGHLAND LIGHT, April 12.—The American bark Matanzas was discovered between the outer and inner peaked hill bars at dawn today and a tug from which she had apparently broken adrift during last night's side was lying off shore. About the same time an unknown barge was sighted close to the beach near the Panet River Life Saving station.

Lifeguards patrolled the beach opposite both vessels but the gale was too severe to permit the launching of a surfboat during the morning. It was believed that the barge would ride out the sale as the wind was moderating and working to the westward but the position of the bark with the gale blowing directly on the beach was regarded as precarious.
